THE BEECHER TRIAL

Testimony of "an Admirer" of the Plymouth Pastor.

He Thinks a Fortune Might Have Been Made Out of the "True Story."

Jackson S. Schultz Tells What He Knows of the Scandal.

Chas. S. Judson Gives Testimony "About as Harmless as a Lamp Post."

Rumor Unearths Another Theodore Tilton.

NEW YORK, March 15, 1875.

Notwithstanding the rain to-day, many women made their way to the Brooklyn City Court room, and had secured seats when the great scandal trial was resumed. Mr. Beecher and wife came into Court attended by Jackson S. Schultz. Mr. Tilton sat with his lawyers, but ex-Judge Fullerton was still absent. Mrs. Tilton and her friends did not appear, nor were Evarts or Porter present when the proceedings began.

The First Witness.

John W. Harmon was the first witness called to testify. In answer to Mr. Hill, he said: I have lived in Brooklyn ten years, and for four years held the office of Supervisor; I knew Tilton since he was editor of the Brooklyn Union; after Mr. Tilton received his discharge from the Brooklyn Union he told me of it, and I said I hoped it was not in consequence of taking my advice about the Western campaign, and he said that among other things; he told me all the circumstances of his discharge. I met him after this by appointment at a restaurant; there were some persons in the room; the old matter came up of his being dismissed from the Union; he said he was determined to collect the money that Bowen owed him, and he said he would

Revive the Old Slander

that Bowen had uttered charges against one of the best men in Brooklyn; and he remarked that this would bring matters to the surface. He said that Beecher had committed an offense against him and his family; that his wife had told him Beecher had taken advantage of his position, and had made dishonorable proposals to his (Tilton's) wife on several occasions; Tilton said his wife, before she told the story, extracted a promise from her husband not to injure or harm the person involved in this matter. We had a consultation lasting about two hours, but cannot recollect anything more that was said; I have been

An Admirer of Beecher

as a public man for a long time, but do not know whether Tilton was cognizant of this; when Tilton had prepared his "True Story," he read it to me. I remember when the Woodhull scandal was published. Tilton was then in New Hampshire. I met him on his return and asked him for his family to contradict this monstrous story; he said he supposed he could not; I reminded him of his duty to his wife and family, and he repeated his former observation. He did not in this conversation charge his wife with adultery. At the first interview Tilton did not enjoin secrecy on me, but he did afterwards tell me not to mention this matter to any person. After the Woodhull publication Tilton told me I might tell any of my friends that I desired, and I think he mentioned some of them in particular, and one Dwight Johnston, a member of the Board of Supervisors, a friend of mine. In September, 1872, Tilton, at my house, showed me the "True Story," which he said bore from 1863 to that time, and he read it to me, and a few friends were present. I know McKelvey of the Brooklyn Eagle. Tilton had then showed me a proof slip of January, 1871. I told McKelvey Tilton had something which he ought to see.

A Statement of Facts

Cross-examined by Mr. Beach.

I think this first interview with Tilton in the restaurant occurred in the Spring of 1872. I think he then showed me a letter he had written Bowen, and a letter from Bowen written from Woodstock, and containing something about western politics. This letter almost commanded him to support Webster. I was on the other side, and so was interested in the matter. Tilton never at any time made any charge against his wife, but they were always against Beecher. He always spoke of his wife as pure and very religious. I do not know what became of the "True Story" after it was read to myself and friends by Tilton. When Tilton left the papers at my house with a note, McKelvey called shortly after and said he was to have them by an arrangement with Tilton, so that they might be submitted to eminent counsel by the Eagle people. I asked McKelvey who was the eminent counsel, and he replied General Tracy. I told him I would give him the papers if he would take them to Tilton's house and obtain his consent, or tell him that he (McKelvey) had got them, and he left with them. I was always anxious that Tilton should publish

A Vindication of his Wife and Children.

At the interview in Fulton street after his return from New Hampshire, I also asked him to contradict the stories. I offered Tilton five thousand dollars to have the story published, but I do not remember saying that he could make fifty thousand out of it. I said that if a million copies of the story were published they would sell for twenty-five cents a piece, as every person was anxious to hear the truth of the matter.

Re-Direct Examination.

I think the proof slip was handed me by Tilton at the first interview in the restaurant. My impression is I had it before the Woodhull publication. When I offered the five thousand dollars for the publication by Tilton, it related only to the "True Story." The only condition I made to him was that he should swear to it and make its ownership over to me, as I wanted to control it. After Tilton read the story he took it away with him, and I never saw it again.

The witness was shown the "True Story" as published in the Tribune on March 6th, 1875, and identified it as the same read to him by Tilton on that occasion, and it was marked in evidence.

Re-cross Examination.

It would be impossible for me to remember all the documents that were incorporated in the "True Story." This manuscript from which Tilton read was in loose sheets. Tilton said he drafted this "True Story" in accordance with Dr. Storrs' advice.

Jackson S. Schultz on the Stand.

Jackson S. Schultz then took the stand. He testified: I reside in New York, and am a leather merchant. I knew Theodore Tilton since 1864 or 1865. He was on the Independent then, I think, and my relations with him were very kindly and cordial. A few weeks before the issue of the Golden Age I was applied to by him to assist in the enterprise. Franklin Woodruff called with Tilton at my house about it. We discussed the probabilities of its success, and I asked if Beecher would assist. Tilton said he thought he would, and I asked if

Beecher Would Contribute Articles

to it, and Tilton said he would if he (Tilton) would permit him. I agreed to aid Tilton at the next interview. I was to aid him to the extent of fifteen hundred dollars, and so did my partner, Southwick. If the enterprise succeeded we were to be paid back, and if it failed we were to lose the money. Tilton, in his conversations with me, frequently said Bowen had done him great wrong, and that Beecher had refused to put out his hand to save him. After the starting of the Golden Age I was present at a dinner given to Isaac H. Bailey before he left for Europe. The conversation turned on Mrs. Woodhull, and a gentleman from Wall street made some observations upon them. Tilton defended them and said they were High Toned, Honorable Ladies.

The conversation became personal and heated, and I interfered to modify it. I saw Tilton after his publication of the Woodhull story, and told him I was disgusted with this work, and that he had destroyed the Golden Age enterprise. He took the ground that he always defended the weak against the strong, and said they were pure women. After this our relations continued, and the relations between Mrs. Tilton and Beecher were frequently a subject of conversation. Once in my office I said: "Do you mean to tell me that Beecher had criminal relations with your wife?" and he said with a theatrical air: "My wife is as pure as an angel." This was after the Woodhull publication. I had a conversation with Frank Carpenter after this in December, 1872. I had a conversation with Carpenter about starting a newspaper in New York. I had a conversation with Tilton afterwards, in which I told him what Carpenter had said in January, 1873. Tilton came into my office and said he understood I had charged him with blackmailing, and asked who told him, and he said "Frank Carpenter." I told him of my interview with Carpenter, and I told him of an interview friends of Beecher and Tilton had at the Union League Club, at which it was proposed to start a morning paper in New York, Beecher to be its editor-in-chief, while Tilton was to go to Europe as its foreign correspondent. These two gentlemen, Carpenter and Tilton, had a paper in their possession which was to be used for the purpose of procuring one of them a situation on the paper, and that, therefore, I had characterized it as A Blackmailing Job.

Carpenter said the arrangement with regard to Tilton was to change the scene for him and divert his mind. I told Tilton that I said to Carpenter it would be a sorry change for Beecher to leave the pulpit for an editor's chair, and that he would, in that capacity, be more open to attack. At another interview in the Union League Club with Tilton, when Moulton was present, Mr. Moulton said I had made a rather grave charge against Tilton, and that he thought I should apologize or take it back. We then went over the ground again of the interview with Carpenter. I said to them that this interview with Carpenter had developed such a state of facts as justified me. I believed in what I said. I told them they did not know the story as told me by Carpenter. I told them also that Carpenter had mentioned the idea of purchasing the New York Express, turning it into a morning paper, and putting Beecher at the head of it, and all this was to be done on the strength of these papers. Moulton then told me that this was not the story.

At this point the usual recess was taken After the recess Schultz's direct examination was continued. He said: I repeated to Tilton what Carpenter said about Moulton occupying a medium position between the two parties and acting as a friend in the matter. Carpenter, I told Tilton, had said that Moulton was representing the Brooklyn friends of Tilton. Tilton did not make any reply that I can remember. I never received a letter from Beecher about a newspaper enterprise or calling Theodore Tilton a blackmailer. I had

Two Interviews With Carpenter.

Wm. Orton and Henry Clews were then present. Tilton afterwards showed me a check for $7,000 from Bowen as a settlement of his difficulties with him, and he showed me a statement to be published by him declaring that a settlement had been made. He also stated that Bowen would publish a statement of the same character. Tilton said in substance at one time that unless justice was done him he had the power to blow the roof off from Plymouth Church.

Cross-Examined.

This latter occurred in my office, I think about a month before he exhibited to me the Bowen check. I do not remember the year. I have conversed during the intermission of Court with my partner and Mr. Tracy. I do not recollect the date at which Tilton showed me the check. He said: "I have settled the whole controversy with and brought them down to their marrow." He then showed me a statement he was to publish in his paper, and either showed me a statement Bowen was to publish or related its substance to me. The interview four or five weeks previous to the exhibition of the check was in my office. No person was present but Tilton and myself. The usual clerks employed in the office were in the outside portion of the room. I do not remember how the conversation begun or how the subject was opened. Tilton came in and began his usual topic of the Brooklyn difficulty, referring to his being wronged and broken down. I asked him if he charged Beecher with committing adultery with his wife, and he rose up, and swinging his arms around in a theatrical manner, replied: "My wife is as pure as an angel." The remark about blowing the roof off of the church came in this conversation, but I do not remember the connection in which it was introduced.

The witness was pressed by Mr. Beach for some further testimony of this conversation, but the witness replied he did not remember anything further.

The witness then continued: I do not remember at my first interview with Tilton that he disclaimed the right of Carpenter to represent him. Butler and the Watsons were present at the interview in the Union League Club. Moulton may have said that Carpenter had no right to represent Tilton, but I do not recollect it. I do not remember at the interview that Tilton refused to be connected with the newspaper enterprise nor do I remember that he refused to be on any newspaper with which Beecher was connected. The interview with Carpenter when Mr. Orton and Mr. Clews were present was between the 20th of December, 1872, and the 1st of January, 1873. After this I had an interview with Tilton about the charges of blackmail. At almost all of these interviews the subject matter of the charges of Bowen against Beecher were discussed. They were talked over at my house after Woodruff had gone away. I do not remember if they were talked over at the Union League Club when the Watsons and Butler were present. At a dinner given to Mr. Bailey, Mr. Clews was there. I do not recollect if Mr. Pierrepont was there, but Mr. Orton was. When the discussion was getting bitter I endeavored to moderate it.

This finished the cross-examination, and Mr. Tracy handed the witness Bowen's check for $7,000, which he stated he could not identify.

Re-direct Examination

I never told Tilton at any interview that the newspaper enterprise was a good one. The fact that I had called Tilton a blackmailer had circulated through the club and created a great deal of discussion. This conversation about newspaper enterprise was only a short time before the stopping of the Golden Age.

Re-cross Examination.

The apology I made for calling Tilton a blackmailer I suppose was also circulated in the club.

Testimony of Charles S. Judson.

Charles S. Judson was next called, and testified: I reside in New York, and have done so for twenty or twenty-five years. I have known Beecher twenty years and Tilton about fifteen years. I am a merchant, and conduct business in Worth street. I had a conversation with Tilton at Delmonico's about the end of 1865, where we dined together. We had a conversation about Beecher and members of Plymouth church at that interview. I only remember a discussion about Beecher, and I said that Beecher had escaped all the charges so far as the women were concerned in all the time he had been there. Tilton said he had lost all faith in the man. I said this meant something, and asked him for an explanation.

Mr. Beach here arose and objected to this line of examination as not pertinent and material to the issue, and was not a part of the trial.

Mr. Evarts said that they would offer something hereafter that would develop the materiality of this line of examination.

Judge Neilson decided on allowing the conversation.

The witness then continued: To all my inquiries he still replied: "I have lost all faith in the man." Tilton called on me two or three days after that and asked me if I saw Beecher. I said I had, and had told him the conversation we had a few days ago, and Tilton asked "Why?" and I replied: "To put him on his guard, that I would have done the same thing by him," and he said he always considered me a friend, and left.

This concluded the witness' testimony, and Mr. Beach moved to strike it out.

Judge Neilson said he would let it stand, as he thought it was about as harmless as a lamp post. [Laughter.]

Mr. Evarts here rose and took exception to the remark of the Court, and stated that before they were through they would show the materiality of this evidence.

Archibald Black's Story.

Archibald Black, a resident of Brooklyn and a merchant of New York, was then called and related a conversation with Moulton at the Exchange, in which the latter had said the best course for Beecher to pursue under the charges would be to keep silent, and that if his life was not a sufficient answer to these charges, he (Moulton) did not know what was.

The witness said: Moulton told me that if the story was untrue, to publish it would be diabolical. He intimated to me that I might use any information he had given me among friends in the Church of the Pilgrims.

At another interview he told me that all the charges against Beecher had originated with one individual, who had signed a retraction of them. At a third interview at the Exchange he asked me if it was true that Beecher's name had been scraped off a notice read in the Church of the Pilgrims, and I told him it was not true. I also told him that this story was spreading, and he and his friends were using no efforts to check it. Moulton said he saw I was touched, and he would tell me that he knew all about it, and that Beecher was a pure man. I asked him did he mean that Beecher was not guilty of the seventh commandment, and he replied, after a little hesitation, "I do." I asked him if he meant he had always been a pure man, and he replied: "Yes, I mean that."

Cross-Examined by General Pryor.

I remember an excursion I took down the river on the 12th of October, 1871, with Beecher, Tilton and Moulton. I observed that Beecher was disposed to hold himself aloof from the general company, and I thought Beecher and Tilton were not cordial on that occasion. On coming home I ascended the hill from the Wall street ferry with Beecher, and we had some talk about Rev. Dr. Taylor. I expressed regret at Dr. Taylor's going to New York, as Moulton was deeply interested in his preaching, and Beecher said Frank was a noble fellow. He was yet young, and would be right in time.

Re-Direct Examination.

I did not hear Beecher asked to meet Mrs. Woodhull at Moulton's house on the return from the yachting expedition.

Deposition of J. H. Drake.

Mr. Shearman then read the deposition of J. H. Drake, who is now in Europe, and whose testimony was taken before he went there. It was taken before Judge McCue, in Brooklyn, and set forth that in conversation with him, Moulton had denied that these charges were true, and had always maintained that Beecher was a pure man. The Court here adjourned.

Tilton Hunting Up Data.

During the examination of Oliver Johnston, on Thursday last, that witness testified that Mr. Tilton had informed him that on the night before delivering his lecture at Winsted, Conn., he (Tilton) had left his home accompanied by Miss Lovejoy, and, to avoid possible detention by fog or ice, had slept in New York at the St. Dennis Hotel. The lecture at Winsted was delivered on the evening of December 28, 1869. Mr. Tilton's attention having been thus drawn to the subject, he called at the St. Dennis Hotel and found the register under date of December 27, bore in Tilton's handwriting the following entries: Theodore Tilton, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss S. M. Lovejoy, Princeton, Illinois. Tilton was assigned to room forty-four, and Miss Lovejoy to room forty-six, which were found to be on different sides of a dark, narrow hall, and instead of being directly opposite, were some distance apart; Tilton made a memoranda to this effect, expressed himself satisfied with the record, and left the hotel. A further examination of the register shows that Mr. Tilton and Miss Lovejoy had been at the hotel on a former occasion, December 6th, 1869, accompanied by Mrs. Tilton; the entries under this date are as follows: Theodore Tilton and wife, of Brooklyn, and Miss Sophia Lovejoy, of Illinois. Tilton and his wife occupied room fifty, and Miss Lovejoy was some distance removed, in room forty-three or fifty-three, the proprietor cannot now determine which, as both numbers appear on the book.

The Plymouth Jury.

Several ladies have been added to the Plymouth delegation which is grouped daily behind Mr. and Mrs. Beecher and their son. This group is called the Plymouth jury, and Mr. Caldwell, who sits in the front row of seats and at the left end, has been designated "the foreman of the Plymouth jury." The number of ladies in other parts of the court room has largely increased.

Another Tilton.

The Sun says the public is spared a great mass of testimony that had been collected for the great trial, by the discovery that there is alive "Theodore H. Tilton," and that he has been divorced. Theodore Tilton of the hotel and other scrapes, was heard of in Albany, Connecticut and elsewhere, and in the very worst scrapes a man could be in. The story grew thrilling as it waxed more damning, and the climax was capped by finding in the Supreme Court the record of Theodore Tilton's divorce from his wife in 1871, but the name of the wife was recorded as Annie E. Tilton; this spoiled everything, and closer inquiry found the Theodore Tilton in business on Broadway.

The same Theodore H. Tilton had one time sent his card to Miss Anna Dickinson, at a hotel, and the lecturess tripped into the parlor, ready to greet the Tilton of the Woman's Suffrage platform, and there was such a different man wishing to see her, that in a letter she wrote to Tilton about the call, she says she gave him such a greeting that was followed by a brief audience.

PHILADELPHIA.

Meeting of the Executive Committee of the American Iron and Steel Association—A Bill Before the Legislature Denounced as an Infamous Scheme.

PHILADELPHIA, March 15.—A large meeting of the Executive Committee of the American Iron and Steel Association was held this morning. The chairman stated that he had been requested to take some action in regard to the bill introduced in the lower House of the Legislature. The bill having been discussed, the chairman submitted a communication on the subject from the counsel of the association, which was approved. The counsel states that he has examined a copy of the bill, entitled "An act for the adjustment and settlement of disputes between persons, partnerships, associations and corporations engaged in the mining of coal or the manufacture or production of iron or steel, and their employes, &c.," and says it is unconstitutional, establishing, as it does, an industrial tribunal which exercises judicial functions. The bill is criticized as an infamous scheme of legislation.

SALEM, O.

Several Disastrous Conflagrations—Three Fires During Last Week.

Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

SALEM, O., March 15, 1875.

The vengeance of the fire-fiend towards this peaceful and prosperous town seems insatiable. Within one year there have been several disastrous conflagrations here, by which some of our best business men have suffered severely. Again has the midnight incendiary been applying his torch. Last summer there were several fires of such a character as incited the town council to offer a reward of one thousand dollars for the arrest of any persons who had caused the fires that had been, or any that should occur before the first of next April. But thus far no guilty parties have been detected.

On last Thursday morning the Gurney block, owned by Mr. J. Irving Brooks, was discovered to be on fire, and despite the exertions of the fire company, the roof was burned off and the upper stories completely destroyed. In the lower story was the bakery and confectionery of Welker & Loyd—totally destroyed. The dry goods store of Schilling & Briar, and the hardware store of Donnelly, Corre & Lescher, was much damaged by water from the engine. The upper story was occupied by offices and a photograph gallery. These were totally destroyed. Mr. Brooks had eleven thousand dollars insurance on the block.

Scarcely were the people recovered from the panic of Thursday's fire, when the fiend sought another victim. On Saturday night, between ten and eleven o'clock, fire was discovered in a room occupied by the Grand Army of the Republic. This was in the third story, and directly over the drug store of Hawkins & Green. The timely exertions of the fire company arrested the fire and saved the building, but not without considerable damage. The drug store and a dry goods store in close proximity were not much injured. Two cans partially filled with carbon oil were discovered by the hose men, giving unmistakable evidence of the work of an incendiary. Scarcely was this fire extinguished when another alarm was heard. This time a stable was discovered to be on fire—another incendiary act without the least doubt. It was soon extinguished, but as yet there has been no clue to the nefarious perpetrators. G. D. H.

"THE LOCKOUT."

How it is Viewed From a Foreign Standpoint.

The Pittsburgh lockout attracts special attention at Wheeling, and the course of affairs here is narrowly watched there. The Intelligencer, after giving the results of the efforts to come to terms last week, says of the situation at Wheeling:

"The "lockout" at Pittsburgh has thus far had no effect on Wheeling. The mills here have gone on as usual paying the old price for puddling, which is $6.25 per ton, or $1.75 more than the price offered at Pittsburgh. Wheeling always pays 25 cents more than Pittsburgh. It is not supposed that a reduction here would materially effect the nail market for good, and therefore manufacturers have not thus far cared to follow in the wake of Pittsburgh, the probability being that whatever was secured in puddling would soon be lost in the competition to sell nails.

"As things look at Pittsburgh now, the lock-out, which has run nearly four months, may last all spring. The tone of the puddlers indicates that they believe that the worst of the pressure upon them has passed away with the winter, and that henceforth the contest will be stronger on their side. If this is their feeling, as it seems to be, it is not improbable that we may see a lock-out somewhat like the great strike now going on in Wales, which has lasted for months, and which is still kept up with unrelenting persistency. In Great Britain, as in this country, there is great depression in the iron business, and consequently in coal mining. There, as here is an effort to reduce wages, and there, as here, it is bitterly resisted. The anomalous condition of the iron trade all over the world prevents any solution for these difficulties. It is everywhere claimed that there is no profit in running mills or operating coal mines, and that the prospects ahead are so discouraging as not to justify any attempts to bridge over the differences between employers and employes. Hence the passiveness and indifference that characterizes manufacturers both in this country and in Europe. It is not unlikely that they will continue to manifest that feeling until the out-look changes for the better, and of this there is no present prospect."

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

A Woman Tries a New Method to Kill Herself.

About noon yesterday a young woman named Mrs. Demich, who resides in the second story of No. 94 Chestnut street, near Perry street, Allegheny, made a deliberate attempt to put an end to her earthly existence. It appears that her husband, who is a basket maker, stepped out of the house and entered an adjoining house, where he had been but a short time when a little girl came screaming for him and cried out that his wife was bleeding to death. A number of persons ran into the house and found the woman lying on a bundle of basket willows on the floor, and at her side a large pool of blood. It was found that she had obtained her husband's razor and inflicted a large wound on the inside of her left elbow, and was rapidly bleeding to death. Medical aid was summoned and the wound dressed and the bleeding stopped. She gave no reason whatever for attempting to kill herself.

Good Health and Long Life

Are not so much the result of medication as the use of nature's remedies, the chief of which is the purifying of the blood through Nature's channels through the pores of the skin, which is most effectually done by the Turkish or Russian bath. Invalids will find Dr. Greenawalt's, No. 11 Wylie avenue, a pleasant resort for these baths.

SECOND EDITION

FROM WASHINGTON.

Indemnity for the Virginius Massacre.

Official Correspondence Submitted to the Senate.

Spain to Pay the United States $80,000 in Gold.

WASHINGTON, March 15, 1875.

Senate Proceedings.

In the Senate Mr. Ingalls introduced a resolution requesting the President to transmit to the Senate, if not incompatible with the public interest, any information in his possession in regard to the promised emigration to the Black Hills country, held by the Sioux Indians under the treaty of February 24th, 1869, and whether said emigration is with the consent of the Indians holding said country, and if not, what measures will be taken in reference to the same. Agreed to.

The consideration of the resolution for the admission of Pinchback was then resumed, and Mr. Ferry, Connecticut, addressed the Senate.

Upon the conclusion of the remarks of Mr. Ferry, Mr. West took the floor and spoke in favor of the admission of Pinchback.

When he had concluded, on motion of Mr. Morton, the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business. At 2:40 P. M. the doors were reopened and the Senate adjourned.

Indemnity for the Virginius Massacre.

The Secretary of State to-day communicated to the Senate, in accordance with a resolution of that body, correspondence between the United States and the Spanish Government in relation to the claim for indemnity from Spain for the execution at Santiago de Cuba of Americans who were on board the Virginius. The Secretary reports that the claim has been disposed of by an agreement entered into by Minister Cushing and the Spanish Minister for Foreign Affairs. The correspondence dates as far back as November 29, 1873, giving the origin of the Virginius difficulty, and this includes the Fish-Polo protocol; also the report of the naval court of inquiry convened by Secretary Robeson on January 3d, 1874. The British Government, in making its demand for indemnity for British subjects taken from the Virginius and murdered, has fixed the sum at five hundred pounds for each white man and three hundred pounds for each colored man, the sum total amounting to £7,700, there being ten white men and nine negroes killed. After much negotiation, Spain agreed to pay £6,700, one thousand less than had been demanded, with a stipulation that if any of the families or heirs of the persons slain did not make a claim to the money, the amount they would be entitled to should be returned to the Spanish Government. The proposition was accepted by Great Britain. Minister Cushing, on November 25th, informed the Secretary of State that the Spanish Government would do the same for the United States as it would for Great Britain. Secretary Fish informed Minister Cushing that the United States would not take less.

Secretary Fish's instructions to Minister Cushing are as follows. They are dated November 28, 1874: In the settlement of all the crew not claimed by Great Britain, and for whom she did not receive indemnity, and who must be treated as American seamen, no less a sum can be received for white persons, namely, not less than $2,500. The captain, mate, engineers, pursers and doctor should be allowed more. Three of the passengers slain are understood to have been American citizens, and must be allowed for the same as others. You will ask indemnity for detention and imprisoning, and for losses sustained by those of the crew and passengers who are American citizens who were not executed. We understand the number to be fifteen of the crew, including two engineers and one assistant and four of the passengers—nineteen in all.

On Dec. 30, 1874, Secretary Fish writes to Cushing, expressing regret that Minister Ulloa should have deemed it necessary, even in deference to public feeling in Spain, to refer to the executions at Santiago as "The strict fulfillment of the laws in special circumstances," or as called for by "the imperious voice of duty," or to take from the moral effect of the indemnity proposed by characterizing the reparation as "actuated by sentiments of pity consequent on a duty fulfilled and as caused by a desire to alleviate the misfortunes of those who suffer through punishment imposed on others by the law." I could could have hoped that a review of all the facts attending the executions, and a consideration at this late day of those barbarous and cruel acts, happily without a parallel, would have deterred the accomplished Minister of State from the use of any expressions and from allowing himself to be committed to any views tending to justify those executions. While such expressions accompanying an offer of settlement may not prevent the acceptance of the offer, this Government would fall in its duty did it not signify its dissent from expressions tending to justify or apologize for the acts, and this may be done, as suggested by you, and approved in my telegram of December 11th, by a counter protest or joint memorandum procluding any interferences adverse to the position of this Government in regard to acts complained of. Without considering that supposed necessity may demand such an apparent justication, I cannot but believe that had Spain joined the civilized world in a denunciation of these executions and had she long since visited prompt and effective punishment on the guilty parties, the moral support she would have gained thereby would have largely exceeded any corresponding detriment.

Here follows a draft of the agreement between the United States and Spain, in substance as below: In the case of the United States, Secretary Fish made a claim on the basis of twenty-five hundred dollars for each of the crew slain, without regard to color, and a larger sum for each officer slain, without specifying any particular sum. This demand was pressed and adhered to strenuously until the Spanish Government yielded and consented to pay eighty thousand dollars in gold unconditionally, the money to be distributed by the United States Government without any accountability for sums not claimed, as in the case of Great Britain.

Secretary Fish telegraphed Minister Cushing on March 3d, 1875: "You are authorized to present your credentials if immediately thereafter the final agreement will be signed."

Minister Cushing telegraphed Secretary Fish on March 9th: "The official agreement has been signed substantially as telegraphed on the 2d. Credentials to be presented on the 10th."

Minister Cushing telegraphed March 12th: "Credentials presented on the 10th, ratification signed on the 11th, and sent the same day by express."

The Black Hills.

It is the determination of the Government to secure to the Sioux Indians all their treaty rights with reference to the Black Hills country, and, therefore, all persons will be prohibited from going there, and those now there will be required to remove until the Indian title is extinguished. The Government will endeavor to extinguish the Indian title at the earliest practicable moment.

Removals from Office Asked.

A delegation from North Carolina had an interview with the President to-day, urging the removal of ex-Governor Holden as postmaster at Raleigh.

A delegation from Baltimore called to urge the removal of Collector Booth, but the President refused to see them.

A Mississippi Town Nearly Destroyed—Four Persons Killed.

CORINTH, MISS., March 15.—A hail and rain storm passed over this section last night. The town of Rienzi was nearly destroyed. Four persons were killed, namely, Porter Walker, Miss Mattie Palmer, Mr. Jordon Reese and daughter. Several were dangerously and many slighly wounded. The waters are fast subsiding. The damage to railroads and telegraphs is inconsiderable. All communication will be resumed to-morrow.

WEST INDIES.

Another Butchery in Cuba.

NEW YORK, March 15.—The Sun of this morning says: "A report reaches us of the commission of another of those outrages in Cuba which shock humanity and almost stagger belief. The report referred to is embodied in a letter received by a Spanish house in this city, and is to the effect that twenty-two young men, of Cuban birth, and residents of Cienfuegos, had been arrested in their homes in that city by volunteers, and without even the farce of a trial, were shot outside the city walls."

SENATE.

The General Appropriation Bill.

The Senate met at eleven o'clock.

On motion of Mr. RUTAN, House bill No. 105, to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth, interest on the public debt, and for the common schools, for the year 1875, was called up and passed unanimously.

The Senate and House Conference Committee on the tax bill, known as "No. 54," will make a report on Tuesday morning. They will retain in the bill the clause electing poor boards by Councils, and strike out section 9 in regard to the poll tax. To section 13 they have added a proviso that nothing in the section shall interfere with the power of the Councils, and that any citizen shall have the right to apply to a Court for redress. They strike out sections 14 and 15, which would authorize Courts of Quarter Sessions to divide any ward on petition of one hundred citizens. K.

ST. LOUIS.

A Tragedy in a Court Room.

ST. LOUIS, March 15.—On the 22d of September last, while several boys were playing on the street near the corner of Christy avenue and Seventeenth, a little son of Robert Boatright was killed by a brick, supposed to have been thrown by a boy named Woodson. This afternoon, while Woodson was being tried in the Criminal Court, and while the counsel were arguing a legal point, another son of Mr. Boatright, about sixteen years old, stepped up to Woodson and said "You killed my brother. I will kill you," and plunged a butcher knife into his abdomen up to the handle. Woodson fell to the floor, his bowels protruding in a terrible manner. The wound is mortal. Young Boatright was immediately seized by a Deputy Marshal and placed in jail.

Painters on a Strike.

NEW YORK, March 15, 1875.

The master painters having resolved to increase the hours of labor and wages of their workmen from eight hours and three dollars a day to ten hours and three dollars and fifty cents a day, the workmen went on a strike to day.

THE LATEST NEWS.

Condensed Telegrams from All Quarters.

—A severe wind and snow storm set in at Ohama, Neb., at an early hour on Monday morning.

—The U. S. steamer Pensacola, with King Kalakaua on board, arrived at Honolulu on February 15.

—The Indiana Legislature has repealed the Baxter liquor law and passed a license law in its stead.

—General Ord has ordered a company of cavalry to start from Fort Laramie as soon as the weather permits, with instructions to bring in all the miners reported to be at Harney's Peak.

—The chimney of the Capital City rolling mill at Indianapolis was blown down on Monday morning. The chimney was twelve feet at the base and ninety-six feet high. It was supposed a number of tramps who were in the habit of sleeping near the boilers of the mill were crushed by the fall, but so far as known one man only was killed.

—A dispatch from Osceola, Mo., say an attempt was made to rob the savings bank in that place on Saturday night by five men, but the officers of the bank having been put on their guard, had a force inside the bank, and when the robbers entered, fired upon them and wounded and captured Jno. Langdon. The others fled. A remarkable feature in the affair is that so far at least neither of the James or Younger brothers are charged with being the leaders of the party.

—Advices from Ft. Gibson, I. T., say Henry Naves, while resisting a process in the hands of United States Deputy Marshal Walker a few days ago, was killed. A number of friends of Naves then turned and drove the Marshal and his posse away. Nine United States Marshals are now in Muskogee, and several whisky venders have been arrested. A company of United States soldiers is expected there soon, when an expedition will be made into the Cherokee Nation for the purpose of capturing a number of murderers and outlaws, who bid defiance to the civil authorities.

TUESDAY, MARCH 16, 1875.

BONDS at Frankfort 99¼.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 30f.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 116.

THE ice gorge near Kittanning was reported on the move yesterday, and fears were entertained of severe losses.

THE General Appropriation bill goes to a Conference Committee. It will probably be finally shaped in accord with the views of the Senate.

THERE were reports yesterday of other failures in London, than that of $10,000,000 reported on Saturday last. Fears of a financial or business panic there are entertained.

A TERRIBLE massacre is reported to have taken place in Cuba—twenty-two young men, residents of Cienfuegos, having been seized and summarily shot by the volunteer soldiery. Valmaseda's return seems likely to be characterized by fearful atrocities.

GENERAL SHERMAN sturdily adheres to the idea that the gold hunting gentry must keep out of the Black Hills region. He claims that the same kind of justice that we demand of the Indians must be accorded them. We will see what we will see.

THE report now comes to us that the Erie Railroad and New York parties are arranging under existing laws, to lay a pipe from the oil regions to New York. If the project succeeds, Philadelphia will be left out in the cold, so far as the oil trade is concerned.

THE Senate at Harrisburg has a report from its Financial Committee negativing appropriations to Western University and the Philadelphia Medical College. State institutions of a really charitable character will receive such aid as can be judiciously given.

THE question of the feasibility of the new plan of Secretary Bristow, in calling in the bonds of the Government, thereby reducing the gold supply to a minimum, is worthy the closest attention. If the plan works, it will prove conclusively that there is no need of maintaining a heavy gold balance in the Treasury. This fact will have to do with the annual payment on interest account.

THE reported readiness of the Sioux to sell their right to the Black Hills region may furnish a solution to the mixed question of gold hunting there. The reports brought in by the hunters are such that it is evident that a large force of men will make their way to the Hills, despite the efforts of the Government to the contrary. [illegible] course, the best.

THE conferment of a Cardinal's hat on Archbishop McCloskey, of New York, is a recognition of the importance of American Catholicism, such as has not heretofore been given. Archbishop Bayley, of Baltimore, has been designated to bestow the hat,—and a special representative of the Pope is to bring to this country, the emblems of the newly conferred honor. The dignity carries with it no additional power.

THE case of Pinchback, in the United States Senate, is receiving far more attention, in our judgment, than its merits deserve. It is being drifted into a partizan measure, whereas it is the general feeling that it simply stands on its merits. If he was legally elected, he should be admitted: but if he was not legally elected, he should stand aside. We believe it would be well were the election of a United States Senator included in the compromise, but this, of course, is impossible. The career of Pinchback does not prove him to be a man of remarkably high honor or very nice morality. This is the essential misfortune in the case. He is not worth straining a point over, and therefore the case should rest strictly on its merits.

MCCLURE'S new paper,—The Times,—was issued on Saturday, and is a large, neat and newsy two-cent journal. In its editorial, announcing its policy, it places itself in the list of independents, that have a strong propensity to criticise every existing thing. Its appreciation of what is termed "independence" is evidently great, and yet the spirit that runs through its declarations is very similar to that of the New York Tribune. A really vigorous, able, and impartial journal, will be a blessing to, and ought to succeed in, Philadelphia. Whether the present venture will prove a success remains to be seen. Judged by its advertising outlook we would think that a considerable sum of money must be sunk before success is attained; but accepting the evident ability of the paper, it deserves immediate success.

MUCH has been said, by the press, relative to the measure of success that attended the expedition of Sir Samuel Baker into Central Africa, under the authority of the Khedive of Egypt. It is known that the Khedive was dissatisfied with the results, and that Baker retired from his service with but little honor. A careful reading of Baker's book, "Ismalia," which was written after his return to England, and from the standpoint Ego, is sufficient to convince a careful observer, not only that the expedition was a failure, but that Baker was totally unqualified for the command with which he was entrusted. His difficulties at Khartoun, and in cutting his way through obstructions in the way to the White Nile were, in a measure, unavoidable. But when he had reached his place of authority, at Gondokoro, he was weak enough to be baffled by an inferior officer, by the slave traders and by nearly every African chieftain with whom he came in contact. He was simply a hunter with large facilities, but utterly without tact or persistency as a military commander. His book has some value as showing the location and character of several of the African tribes, but his departure from the beaten track embraced about five hundred miles. The results were not worth their cost.

THE propriety and importance of a fair degree of charity in judging public officials is very strikingly illustrated by the correspondence between Messrs. Thaw and Dunlap relative to the $11,000 left from the Chicago Relief fund. The correspondence shows that the committee, in whose hands the funds were, obtained a charter constituting themselves a corporation, and under this assumed full charge and control of these funds, which had been contributed for a specific purpose. What a fine opportunity for the insinuation that these gentlemen had exceeded their powers, formed a combination, seized money, and were holding it none knew for what,—possibly to divide it when all memory of the transaction were lost. We do not make these charges,—on the contrary we believe the gentlemen acting as trustees are strictly honorable in their purposes, and are seeking to increase the fund, so as to make it a permanent benefit to the poor. Yet some of the parties doing this, and who thus quietly but honestly diverted a fund contributed to one purpose to another and entirely different purpose, are very free in their charges against others whose actions are not a whit more questionable. The lesson of forbearance and charity in judgment could not be more pertinently illustrated.

IT IS now quite evident that the closing sessions of the House at Harrisburg will be exceptionally disgraceful. At the beginning of the session, time was frittered away by the Democracy in buncombe resolutions, and partisan efforts to annoy and spite the Republicans. Public business was left entirely unconsidered. Now as the session draws to a close, bills are rushed through in the most reckless manner, and in utter violation of the Constitution. In the General Appropriation bill, that passed the House, was an item appropriating out of the $1,000,000 for public schools, $2,000 for a School of Design for Women, in Philadelphia,—a corporate institution totally distinct from the public school system. The Constitution also specifies how bills shall be treated, while on their passage through either branch of the Legislature. The requirements thus made are in the interest of honest legislation; but the House, on Friday evening last, totally disregarded these restrictions, and passed bills through their different readings in a grossly unconstitutional and reckless manner. We strongly incline to the opinion that one-half the enactments of the present Legislature might be successfully resisted in the Courts on the ground that they were unconstitutionally passed.

THE Times, of Philadelphia, has this to say of the bill before the Legislature to regulate the mining of coal and manufacture of iron and steel in this State: "In the first place, it provides for a monthly publication of the entire details of the business of every person, association and corporation in the State engaged in the mining of coal or manufacture of iron or steel, and punishes with fine and imprisonment failure to conform with the inquisitorial requirement. It says when and how coal shall be mined; when and how salaries or wages must be paid, and how much stock an operator or manufacturer may have on hand. But its chief feature is its plan for adjusting disputes between capital and labor. For this purpose it creates a Board of Arbitration, to be known as 'The Industrial Tribunal of Pennsylvania,' and which is to be composed of one coal operator, three coal miners, three coal laborers, one manufacturer of iron and steel, three laborers in iron and steel, and the Secretary of Internal Affairs. An impartial body certainly, and one in which each class has an equal representation!" A movement to secure unfair representation is very certain to injure the parties that make it more than those who are expected to be unfavorably affected by it. It is never wise to seek improper and one-sided legislation.

SPRING BUSINESS.

The evident break-up of Winter, and the early promise of Spring, have aroused a deep interest in the prospect of business. In all the departments of trade, much alertness is displayed to ascertain whether there will be a revival of activity, and to what departments of business it will extend. If commerce is active, our stores and merchants will prosper. If railroads are busy, they will be able to purchase material, and so help our manufacturers. Agriculture cannot, of course, develop itself, as to results, until the Fall months, and this is of little moment in determining the speed with which the recuperation of the business of the country shall proceed. Generally speaking, there is an evident feeling of hopefulness, particularly at the West. There, the remark is made, that despite the small amount of grain marketed last Fall, the farmers are generally in better condition than is usual with them. The railroads at the West, too, have suffered less from the Granger laws than was expected, and thus, are in better financial condition than was anticipated. Thus the [illegible]

We believe the railroads of the country furnish the best test of the average condition of business. Their freightages represent the internal commerce of the country, which in turn depends on the amount of business being transacted. Taking this view, the general outlook is certainly encouraging. The Pennsylvania Railroad, for example shows receipts for the year, just past, of about $2,000,000 less than the previous year,—being a falling off of ten per cent. By economy of management, it had more than made this amount good, thus showing net results as favorable as during preceding years. Thus the reduction of business, as tested by this rule, is about ten per cent. With this as a fact, there should be a positive and very decided revival of activity with the return of Spring weather. If, during the past year, business has been transacted to the amount of nearly the full average volume, there are the conditions evidently existing for the full and absolute revival of business, at an early date. This is clearly the only proper interpretation derivable from the data referred to. But this alone does not embrace all the conditions that require mention.

It is perfectly certain that there has been a heavy falling off in railway construction. Comparatively little work is being done in the way of railroad building at this time, and the past year was lighter in results than we have had for a decade. There is probably no single form of business which contributes so largely to the general prosperity as that of railway construction. It puts in motion large sums of money, keeps active iron manufactories, gives employment to many workmen, and thus stimulates all forms of industry, and benefits commerce in many ways. There is a generally poor outlook for this form of enterprise during the current year. The Pennsylvania Railroad will do more than the average amount of track-laying, in anticipation of the Centennial, and it is probable that the work of refitting and replenishing roads will be much larger than usual during the present year. What influence this will have on manufactures remains to be seen. It may stimulate trade slightly, but cannot contribute, in any large degree, to the revival of business.

Taking all facts into account we assume that there will be a moderate increase in business activity, which will simply illustrate the slow emergence of the country from the depression of the panic. We cannot have that large prosperity that has been the rule for the last ten years. Yet if all will accept the situation,—the workmen realize that times are depressed, and employers that less than the usual profits should be expected, there may be a revival of business sufficient for all to provide the comforts of life to family and friends. But the stern fact must be accepted, that we must begin at the bottom, and build up again. Until this fact is accepted generally, and the ideas of all are made to conform to the new order of things, we shall have no substantial improvement. When the situation is accepted, activity and confidence are again resumed, our recovery will be rapid and satisfactory. The country is in most excellent condition for recuperation. We need only to establish confidence, and restore manufactures,—the beginning to be on the basis that now exists, and which must be recognized, to begin at once to regain former activity and prices. Could all classes realize this, the return of prosperity would be speedy. Fortune favors those who help themselves.

An Indian Story.

We learn from a gentleman of this city, who is just back from a trip up the river, the particulars of a rather extraordinary case of experience in the last awful "blizzard." An Indian and his squaw were caught out in the storm while journeying from Fort Randall to the Fort Thompson Agency, and, becoming bewildered, took refuge in a small ravine. They wrapped their blankets about them and sat down under the bank. The snow soon covered them, but the Indian kept a hole through the rapidly-forming drift with his gun, which he would poke up occasionally. They remained there all night, and the drift became so high in the meantime that he was obliged to splice the ramrod to the end of his rifle in order to reach to the top and keep up ventilation. During their cheerless imprisonment the squaw was delivered of a child, and it was christened "Snow-Drift."—Sioux City Journal.

GENERAL BELKNAP, the Secretary of War, says the Army and Navy Journal, will be held in most grateful remembrance by the future historian. Since he has been in office he has gathered from all parts of the country a most valuable collection of the private letters and papers of our military heroes of the past, some of which are none the less valuable because they serve to dispel the religious halo that has gathered around the heads of the rough-riding, hard swearing troopers of the past. To add to his services in this line the General has inaugurated the work of publishing the official records of our military operations during the war. No Secretary of War has more justly and satisfactorily administered the affair of that important office.

AN UGLY CUSTOMER.

Capture of an Immense Cuttle Fish.

An enormous Cephalopod was recently captured at Coomb's Cove, Newfoundland. The body of this creature measured ten feet in length, and was nearly as large as a hogshead. The long arms were forty-two feet long, and were the size of a man's wrist; the other arms were six feet long, and the color of the skin and flesh was reddish. Dr. Honeyman, geologist, of Nova Scotia, gives the following description, taken from an eye-witness, of a capture in the Straits of Belle Isle, at West St. Modent, on the Labrador side: "It was lying peacefully in the water, when it was provoked by the push of an oar. It looked fierce, and ejected much water from its funnel; it did not seem to consider it necessary to discharge its sepia, as mollusca of this kind generally do in order to cover their escape. The length of the longest arm was thirty-seven feet; the length of the body, fifteen feet; whole length, fifty-two feet. The bill was very large; the suckers of its arms or feet, by which it lays hold, about two inches in diameter. The monster was cut up, salted, and barreled for dog's meat. This specimen was probably disabled, as the Cephalopods apparently never float or lie quietly at the surface when in health. They shoot through the water with great velocity, and many species associate in companies. As they remain deep below the surface, and moreover, by means of their big eyes, are enabled to see and avoid objects afar off, we understand why they are not more frequently encountered by vessels traversing the seas. The giant species of Cephalopods probably inhabit all marine waters, but they particularly affect those which are deep and have a rocky bottom, to which they can adhere with their arms. From the descriptions we have given of various specimens, it is easy to picture to the mind the form and proportions of these Cyclopic mollusks. Their bodies are long and fusiform, terminated at the posterior end by a spear-shaped fin. The head is furnished with a pair of great, greenish, ghastly eyes, a bill like a parrot, and ten arms surrounding in a circle. The arms are provided with rows of suckers, and, in some species, the suckers are encircled with a row of hooks to aid them in clasping. Add to all this that the body contains a fountain of inky fluid which the animal can eject at will in order to color the water and hide it from view of its enemies, and we have a creature sufficiently equipped with weapons—offensive and defensive—to come forth victorious in a battle with almost any combatant inhabiting land or sea. In its own element the Cetaceous are probably the only animals that can successfully encounter it."

Extraordinary Inquest on the Body of Sir C. Lyell.

On the 26th ult., an inquest was held on the body of Sir Charles Lyell, at his house in Harley street, Cavendish square, London, in consequence of a rumor having reached the Coroner that the death arose through a fall down stairs. On the jury assembling they were unable to view the body, as it was inclosed in a leaden coffin which had been soldered down, and as the family were very averse to having the coffin opened, the Coroner pointed out to the medical man who had attended the deceased that in the case of a poor man an inquest would be deemed necessary, and urged that a great scandal would be brought on a Coroner's Court if there were no inquest in the case of Sir Charles Lyell, who was a rich man. It was then arranged that evidence should be taken while an undertaker was procured to open the coffin. It was shown that on the 9th of December last deceased fell down some stone steps and injured his head, and that this accident had, to a great extent, been the cause of his death. At the conclusion of the evidence a neighboring undertaker, who had been fetched, opened the lid of the coffin sufficiently to enable the jury to see the face of the deceased, and they then consulted and returned a verdict that death had arisen through an effusion of serum on the brain, in consequence of the fall.

Wrangling Over the Lord's Prayer.

Says the Burlington Hawkeye: "There are always two sides to a question, and sometimes more," was the remarks made by a man the other day, as he stepped into the Court room during recess, and found the entire counsel in the Curtz will case wrangling over the Lord's Prayer. They each gave a different version of it, and finally referred it to the Judge, who in turn shifted the responsibility to the clerk, who went down stairs and got a Bible, and after looking all through the Old Testament for it, gave it up and called in a Sunday school scholar who repeated it as it should be, and developed the startling fact that of the twelve or fifteen lawyers who had entered into the controversy, every one of them had been in the wrong.

SOUTHERN SENTIMENT.

What They Will do When Democracy Triumphs.

C. P. Clark, Esq., agricultural editor of the Des Moines Register, has for some time been traveling in the Southern States. He has written a number of very interesting letters, principally on his agricultural and horticultural observations in the South, yet has had time to investigate the political condition of the localities visited, and learn the feelings of the people. In a recent letter from Charleston, South Carolina, he says: "The upper crust of the white population here are not in the least resigned to the situation. They have not the conviction that the present status of the negro, politically and socially, is an established thing. They say, and evidently believe, that as soon as they again have a Democratic President things will be righted according to their notions. And they say that the Democracy of the North is with them in sentiment and sympathy. They are sanguine that by some hocus-pocus the negro will be again restored to servitude, for which they think that they are only capable. But these people never propose to secede again. They are now for the Union, but believe that by terrorism in the South, aided by Northern Democracy, they will gain control of the Government, when they will make it so warm for Northern Radicals that they will rebel, when they propose showing the North the sweets of being whipped into submission. This is no sensational paragraph. This is the idea here and it is talked of freely.

"Last week when we were in Richmond, Virginia, the State Grange was in session. We conversed with a sturdy, industrious patron, a member of the State Grange living some sixty miles southwest from Richmond. He said the South was riper for rebellion than it was in 1860. But he said they did not propose to effect their object this time by going out of the Union, but by driving out the Radicals, and then, by the aid of the strong arm of the National Government, whipping them into submission. This man said that this was their plan—that it was freely canvassed in his region in private clubs and public discussion, and that he desired only to live long enough to see it.

NAE KISS BEFORE FOLK.

Behave yoursel' before folk,
And dinna be sae rude to me,
As kiss me sae before folk.

It's nae through hatred to a kiss
That I sae plainly tell you this;
But ah! I tak' it sae amiss
To be sae teased before folk,
Behave yoursel' before folk;
When we're alane, ye may tak' ane,
But nent a ane before folk.

Ye tell me that my face is fair;
It may be sae—I dinna care—
But ne'r again gart't blush sae sair
As ye hae dune before folk.
Ye tell me that my lips are sweet;
Sic tales, I doubt, are a deceit,—
At any rate, it's hardly meet
To prie their sweets before folk.

But, gin you really do insist
That I should suffer to be kissed,
Gae get a license from a priest
And make me yours before folk;
Behave yoursel' before folk,
And when we're ane, baith flesh and bane,
Ye may tak' ten—before folk.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, March 16, 1875.

The return of mild weather increases the business activity apparent in our streets. There has been palpable improvement in the volume of general business, and there is a more cheerful spirit apparent among our merchants. The spring trade proper is more than unusually slow in developing, but this is chargeable to the long continuance of winter. There is no doubt that we shall now have a prompt development of spring trade.

In monetary circles there was no change as compared with Saturday. A falling off in deposits increased scrutiny and care in dealing with paper, a tendency to shorten the line of discounts and call in loans, are the features. The anomalous condition of business causes this, in part. Hitherto our manufacturers were really carrying a larger line of paper than they are at present. But notes were met with drafts, bills of exchange, or bills of sale, and new notes given —thus perpetually changing the character of the paper. Now, owing to the prostration of business, notes are renewed and their character remains unchanged. It is this that makes the banks nervous, and for this nervousness customers complain.

The revival of business throughout the country is being watched with more than ordinary interest, and every encouraging incident of the situation is eagerly discussed by merchants and bankers. Many of the Western papers are not only hopeful, but enthusiastic, in their predictions of an active spring trade, and see many signs among their surroundings of a material change for the better. It is cited, for instance, that, notwithstanding their inability to market the entire crop, the farmers of the West are more forehanded than they were during the preceding year; that while the war against railroads had its effect in a general and important reduction of rates the prices of the producers increased, and, finally, that there has been a marked reduction in many of the articles which enter into agricultural consumption. How generally these facts apply there are no present means of knowing, but as far as they go they justify the observations frequently made concerning the brightening prospect everywhere. The process of recovery is necessarily slow, but once commenced, it is likely to move steadily on, and, from one section to another and one industry to another, communicate its force and healthful influence. In connection with the railroad legislation under what is popularly known as "the Grange rule," it is also stated that the Potter law has not proved so damaging to the roads as is generally supposed, for the reason that the low price of wheat has prevented the larger portion of the crop from being sent to market; and hence that it remains in the hands of farmers subject to future demand and to the advanced rates allowed by the new law whenever the shipment takes place. When this may occur no one can tell, but the recent increase in prices and the growing activity of all markets may be fairly considered as premonitory symptoms of an early movement and a consequent improvement in the receipts of the railroads. Meanwhile the latter have been forced to exercise greater economy in their management and a policy of retrenchment which, if maintained, must in the end redound to the benefit of the stockholders. It is not, therefore, necessary to go to Wall street to find reasons why the future of good stocks and bonds, heretofore strongly held, should not be as bright and assuring as their past.

NEW YORK, March 15, 1875.

The market became more active in closing dealings, and rates were bid up to 5@6 per cent. by a simultaneous movement of the gold clique in moving up the price of gold half a point, but it made no material change in stocks, prices being well supported and not giving way; but the movement served to make the final half hour of the day the most active and important. The closing rate of money was 5; prime mercantile paper 5@7. Foreign exchange was entirely demoralized in late business, and sales were reported as low as 479 1-2 and 482 1-2 for prime banker's bills. At these rates gold will be imported from London, unless the Bank of England is able to check it. The customs receipts were $349,000. In late dealings gold advanced to 116, which was the closing price. The clique were large purchasers. A dispatch from London reported an uneasy feeling in the market there. British consols, which ought to be affected by such a change, if there were any, were unchanged. United States bonds, however, were a shade easier for quotations. The borrowing rates were 1-32, 3-64, and 1-64 per diem, and 2 to 7 per annum. Loans at the close were made flat. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $115,000. The clearings were $62,000,000.

Government bonds were strong. Railroad bonds were firm. State bonds were quiet. Stocks opened strong, with a decided upward tendency. Later there was a falling off of ½@½ on rumors of further failures in London. The market closed steady to firm. Northwest, St. Paul, Union Pacific, Western Union Telegraph, Ohios and Rock Island were notably strong. Pacific Mail was heavy, and the other shares about steady. The transactions aggregated 192,000 shares, of which 22,000 were Pacific Mail, 41,000 Western Union, 20,000 Northwest, 5,600 Lake Shore, 7,500 Rock Island, 10,000 Ohios, and 70,000 Union Pacific.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS—WEEKLY REVIEW.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, March 15, 1875.

The weather has materially moderated within the past week, and was more favorable for the free movement of goods, although trade in the interior will no doubt be restricted for a time in consequence of the bad condition of the country roads, and some days must yet elapse before we can record the regular opening of the Spring trade. The general outlook is more cheerful; the settlement of the tax and tariff questions by the adjournment of Congress has afforded relief to several branches of business, particularly to groceries and tobacco, and if the negotiations now pending with a view of bringing the iron lock-out to a speedy termination, are successful, a decided and general improvement in our local trade would soon follow. In our leading markets there have been no new or important features since the date of our last review; business in grain circles has been somewhat curtailed, in consequence partially, of recent failures having impaired confidence, and the trade just now are exercising more than ordinary care, refusing to sell to long-winded or doubtful buyers. The grocery trade has improved somewhat within the past week or two, although it is still behind what it usually is at this particular time. The hog product has stiffened up very materially, under the influence of the advices from the West, and prices are tending upward. In general produce business is only moderate, and the most important features we have to notice is a sharp decline in Eggs, and Butter is lower also.

APPLES—Under increased receipts our market is easy at $2 50@2 75 for prime, and $3 ₩ barrel for choice.

APPLE BUTTER—Moving a little more freely, but the stocks are large, and 50@55c are the ruling figures for prime well boiled stock.

ALE—The demand continues light and prices are unchanged; X at $9 ₩ barrel to the country and $8 to city; XX, $10; Indiaiale, $11.

ASHES—There is a very fair demand for Soda and Pearls, but no quotable change in prices. Common Soda, (48 ₩ cent) 3¼@3½c; refined, (57@58 ₩ cent) 4@4¼; Pearlash, 8@8½; Potash, 7½ to 8c; Flour Spar, 2c; Manganese, 6½c; Arsenic, 8.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—Is quiet, being almost out of season, but the supply is light here, and rates remain about as last quoted; 3@3½c ₩ ℔.

BEANS—The demand is fair, and market firm at $1 90@2 for mediums and $2@2 10 for prime navy. Dealers report a daily increasing inquiry, and although the stocks have been large for some time, yet they are very much reduced now, and higher prices are possible. It is reported that very large shipments are being made from Chicago, Detroit, &c, to the Aid Societies in Kansas and Nebraska, so large as to materially advance prices at those places.

BROOMS—Superintendent Lang, of the Union Factory, reports the market unchanged at the recent advance. Considering the high price of Broom Corn, Brooms are still low, leaving scarcely a living margin to the makers. In fact it is so small that many shops are being closed, as Corn cannot be bought at to-day's prices and made into Brooms at a profit. It is a settled fact that the stock of Brush in the country is not sufficient to meet the demand during the Summer, and still higher prices are looked for. None of the manufacturers that we know of are urgently soliciting orders, expecting that when present stocks are reduced by the Spring demand, another advance will be made. Following are the "Union" factory rates: No. 2 common, $3 00; No. 3 Hurl, $3 25; No 4, $3 75; No 5, $4 25; No 6, $4 50; No. 3 Carpet, $4 75; No. 4 do, $5 00; fancy, Parlor, $5 50; Steamboat Brooms, $4 25@5; Whisps, plain, $1 50@2; Whisps, fancy, $1 75 @2 25; Toy Brooms, $1 75@2 25.

BUTTER—The past week has been marked by the heaviest receipts known at this season of the year during the last decade. By river, rail and express it has poured in to such an extent that our market is utterly demoralized. Dealers report a wide of prices; 20@22c for prime, 25c for choice, with an occasional sale at 28c for selections. It seems to be the universal desire to unload, as fine fresh spring made will soon begin to come in, and such stock as is now on the market will be hard to move at any price. The larger portion of the receipts are poor, stale from long holding, white and without any uniformity in either color or quality.

BEESWAX—There appears to be no movement in this article here, and, in the absence of sales, we continue to quote nominally at 27@30c ₩ ℔.

BROOM HANDLES—Choice No. 1 plain, $17@18; good, $15@16; choice No. 1 painted, $28@30; good No. 1 painted, $25@27; Toy Handles, painted, $20@22 50.

BROOM CORN—In fair request. Most of our manufacturers holding on to their policy of buying only for immediate wants; consequently sales are for small lots principally, but they appear to be working more cheerfully, as the last advance in the price of Brooms gives them at least a living profit, still they are 25c ₩ dozen behind the Eastern manufacturers, who have advanced $1 25 ₩ dozen since the first of November. Green Corn scarce in this market; sales of choice green at $240@250 ₩ ton; good green that will work itself into a hurl broom, $220@230 ₩ ton; fair Corn, $210@215; good green crooked, long enough for hurl, $200 ₩ ton.

CHEESE—The general tone of the market is easier, and with only a moderate demand, which has not come up to what was expected, or what it usually is at this particular time, the outlook is not as encouraging as it was, and the indications now are that prices are not likely to go any higher, but, on the contrary, in sympathy with the dairy products, may go lower. We quote continue to quote, in a jobbing way, prime Ohio Goshen, 16½@17 cents; New York do., 17@17½.

CANNED GOODS—There is a fair jobbing trade, and it will doubtless continue to keep up pretty well during the balance of the season, as prices are low for the leading articles, and there is no fresh stock to substitute in their place. We continue to quote Peaches, (3 ℔ cans) at $3 40@3 50 ₩ doz; Tomatoes, $1 75@1 90; Corn, $2 50@2 60.

COPPER—There has been rather more doing in manufactured Copper recently, and the indications are that there will be an average Spring and summer trade; no important change in prices lately.

CORDAGE AND ROPE—There has been an improved demand for Rope since the resumption of navigation, but otherwise the market continues quiet, and prices remain unchanged, which we annex as follows:

MANILA ROPE.

COKE—There has been no improvement to note in the demand recently, and while the general outlook is regarded as more favorable, in sympathy with pig iron, trade at present is exceedingly dull; prices are nominally unchanged; $2 50 ₩ ton, delivered free on cars in Pittsburgh.

CEMENT & LIME—Youghiogheny Cement, $1 75@2 ₩ bbl; Louisville, $2@2 25; Beeson's, $1 75 @2; Rosendale; $2 25@2 75; Portland, $7 50@8 00; Calcined Plaster—French's, $4@4 25; New York, $3 50@3 75; Eastern, $3 25@3 50; Michigan, $3 25@3 50. Lime—Manufacturers here advanced rates, which last year afforded no margin for profit. We quote Cleveland, Fremont, Sandusky, and Gibsonburg at $1 65@1 75, and Eastern at $1 50.

CRANBERRIES—The market continues quiet and unchanged; sales at $10@10 ₩ bbl for fair to prime. Fancy brands, $13@14.

DRIED FRUIT—Apples, 7@7½c for common to fair; and 8@8½ for prime to choice. Peaches quiet and unchanged; 9@9½c for halves. Blackberries, 9@10c.

EGGS—With the receipts steadily increasing, the stock accumulating, the market has broken badly since the date of our last weekly review: at that time fresh receipts were selling at 35@37c, while to-day they were quoted at 20@22. Dealers, however, expect a reaction before Easter, as there usually is.

FLOUR—Steady, with a fair demand at $5 75@5 85 for well known brands of Extra Family Winter Wheat; $5 25@5 50 for transient brands. Extras, $4 60@4 85; Superfines, $4@4 50. Spring Wheat Flours, $5 25@5 50 for Wisconsins and $5 50@5 75 for Minnesotas. Rye Flour, $5 50@5 75.

FEATHERS—Firm. Sales at 53 to 54c for choice in round lots, with the usual advance for jobbing lots.

GROCERIES—Coffee—A concession of a quarter of a cent was made by the importing trade at the close of the week to induce business, and on account of an increase of the stock of Brazil Coffee in first hands, from 76,930 bags to 101,000 bags in New York, and to about 70,000 bags at all other points, making a total of 171,000 bags, against 68,800 bags at the same date last year, and 85,116 bags in 1873. No sales were reported. In mild goods, however, there was a more active movement at a slight concession, both for consumption and export to Europe. Wright & Co.'s telegram, dated Rio de Janeiro, March 10, reports:—

	Bags.
Sales to the U. S. since 3d inst	34,000
Shipments to the United States	7,000
Loading Coffee	100,000
Stock at date	140,000
Average daily receipts	5,800

Price, 8-500; Exchange, 27. Our market closed steady, with more business doing. Sugar and Molasses unchanged but firm. Syrups steady. Rice doing better but without change, except in the lower grades of Carolina, which are up ⅛ to ¼ at Charleston, but had been all along relatively lower than the higher grades, which are now scarce. Teas steady.

P. S.—A. Thomson & Co., under date New Orleans, March 11, write to their correspondents here that "during the past few days receipts are on a moderate scale, and, with good demand, supplies sold at firm prices. Sugars unchanged. Choice Molasses, 65c; strictly prime, 60@62."

GRAIN—As we have already intimated, trade has been rather dull in grain circles during the past week, but there will doubtless be an improvement before long, notwithstanding it is probable that the demand will continue to be restricted mainly to supplying immediate wants, as both jobbers and consumers generally do not appear inclined to carry any more stock than they can possibly help. If the Pennsylvania Railroad Company would pro rate with our merchants and thus give them a chance to build up a trade with interior towns of the State, as well as with the great seaboard markets, the grain business of Pittsburgh would soon be doubled, if not trebled; but as long as grain can be laid down at points east of here at about the same rates that are charged from Pittsburgh, as a matter of course, our merchants cannot expect to do much if anything beyond the city limits. Our Chamber of Commerce have taken this matter in hand, and it is hoped that they will not cease its agitation until relief is afforded or the reason of its refusal is made known. The demand for Wheat continues light and entirely local, but prices remain as last quoted; Penna. and Ohio red at $1 14@1 16; ditto amber and white at $1 18@1 20. The Oat market continues quiet, but prices are fully maintained; 63½@64 for mixed and 65@65½c for white, free in elevator. MILL FEED—The receipts of all kinds of feed continue light, which is attributed mainly to the stoppage of many of the country mills, and with considerable inquiry and a very limited supply, the market is firm and prices are tending upward. quotable at $1 25@1 30 for Bran, $1 30@1 40 for Seconds, Shorts and Shipstuffs; $1 40@1 50 for Middlings and $1 50@1 60 for Chopped Feed.

POTATOES—The receipts are liberal and prices are easier; prime Peach Blows, $1 on track, and $1 05@1 10 from store.

PROVISIONS—There has been a fair degree of activity in the hog product during the past week, and the general tone of the market is firmer and more confident, under the influence of recent advices from the west, our chief source of supply. Reports from Chicago report that the South has been buying largely, also that considerable purchases have been made for the far-west, and this has stimulated the export demand, notwithstanding it is claimed that prices are higher relatively in this country than in Europe. The general outlook is more favorable for the selling interest now than it has been for some time past, and holders are feeling considerably better than they did a month ago.

ALLEGHENY LIVE STOCK MARKET. —WEEKLY REVIEW.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, March 15, 1875.

ALLEGHENY STOCK YARDS.

There was a very fair supply on sale to-day, 664 head—of which 21 cars or 501 head were from Chicago, against 684 last Monday. The supply, ordinarily, would have been considered a light one, as prior to the panic it was nothing unusual to have 50 to 55 and even 60 cars, and it was easier to dispose of that number then than it is to work off 30 to 35 cars now; for this there are various reasons, to which it may not be out of place to refer. In the first place very few if any butchers are buying as many cattle now as they did then, as they have not the same demand for beef, which is attributable to the general depression in business, and the consequent inability of hundreds if not thousands to obtain employment; then, a number of butchers who formerly drew upon Allegheny for supplies, are now and have been for some time past, buying the most of their cattle in East Liberty. The market to-day, in consequence partly, we presume, of the wet and disagreeable weather, opened slow, and while as compared with last Monday there was no quotable or general change in prices, it dragged nearly all the way through; however, it is but proper to add that the were but very few if any left over unsold. Drovers nearly all complained, as usual, of trade as having been very unsatisfactory, and while conceding that cattle brought very full prices, they claimed that taking the cost at the source of supply and driftage into consideration, that there was little or no margin for profit; it is claimed that cattle are too high in Chicago, yet the kind of stock suitable for this market cannot just now be obtained at any other point.

Sales were made at 7¼@7½ for extra butcher cattle; 6¾@7 for prime; 6@6½ for medium to good, and 5@5½ for common. Bulls were in fair supply and rather better in point of quality; Rothchilds & Bro. reported 1 car of corn-fed Bulls at 5½@6¼.

Following shows the number of cattle on sale, the States they were from as well as the names of the owners:

SHEEP.

There was an increased number on sale, as compared with last week, although it was by no means large, 446 head; the market opened up slow, and, as in the case of cattle, it dragged all the way through. Butchers complained that they could not pay the prices, and the best evidence of this is that they are buying just as few as they can possibly help; as stated in a former report, if it was not for the accommodation of their regular customers, they would buy none at all, as, notwithstanding pelts are bringing a good price, there is little or no margin for profit. That trade was slow is evident from the fact that, in view of the light supply, there were some left over unsold; one dealer reported at noon that he had 60 head left out of 85. Sales were made at 7@7½ for prime to extra; 6@6½ for medium to good, and common may be quoted at 5@5½. The stock on sale was reported as follows:

HOGS.

The supply on sale, although not large, was fully up to the demand, which was only fair, and while we heard of nothing having been sold within 15 to 20c as high as those of last week, it is but proper to state that the average quality of the stock was not as good, which makes quite a difference; in other words, taking the quality into consideration we do not think there was any quotable change in prices. Sales were reported at 8¼@8½ for tops, and 7¾@8 for common. James Hunter had one car from Chicago; the balance of the supply was from East Liberty.

FRESH COWS.

There was but few on sale, and those were mostly common. Thos. Wrick, of Green Co., Pa., had 12 fresh cows and springers, which would not probably average more than $35 ₩ head. Good milkers continue scarce and sell readily at full prices; $60 to $65 each, and extra, $70@75.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, March 15, 1875.

Trade in Petroleum, both Crude and Refined, continues exceedingly quiet, and the markets present no new or important features. The former has not varied over 5c ₩ bbl for a week or more past; immediate shipment, $1 87@1 90, and United certificates, $1 65@1 67½. There appears to be a lull in the market, but it will probably be of short duration, as business is usually brisk at this particular time. The Allegheny river will be navigable again, it is expected, within the next day or two for the first time since early in January, and if so, we may soon look for considerable receipts by river. Refined steady but quiet and unchanged; 12½ appears to be the best bid that can be obtained deliverable on cars here to go to Baltimore, and there does not appear to be much inquiry even at that, although sellers are just about as scarce as buyers.

The Barrel market continues quiet and unchanged at $1 15@1 20 for countries, and $1 30@1 40 for city make.

Provisions Trade.

The Cincinnati Price Current of the 12th inst. says that there has been a decided improvement in the tone of our market since our last review. This is due partly if not chiefly to the increase in the consumptive demand for Bacon and Bulk Meats, and to the fact that the cured product is relatively lower than the prices current for hogs. There has also been more speculative inquiry for Bulk Meats for future delivery, and a large business might have been done at the prices current a week ago, but holders refused to meet the views of buyers, and an advance of ⅛@¼c ₩ ℔ has been established. Still there is but little disposition to sell, for prices are not yet up to the actual average cost of the season's packing, and packers are not disposed to realize a loss so early in the season, feeling confident in the ultimate outcome, and preferring to take the chances of carrying their stocks into or through the Summer. The comparatively high price of gold and its advancing tendency is in favor of an increased foreign demand for Provisions, or perhaps we should say in favor of higher prices in currency without the danger of checking the foreign demand. The same influence favors an increased consumption in the South by giving her increased means through realizing better prices for cotton. Many of the numerous contracts which mature this month have been either settled or extended, and little or no danger is apprehended of a material depression of the market from those who are obliged to sell, for with an easy money market it is not difficult to carry stocks indefinitely. The foreign exports, according to the statistics furnished, showed a considerable reduction last week compared with the corresponding time last year, but this had only a temporarily depressing effect. The market closes very strong, with more disposition to buy, and less to sell than for some considerable time past.

THE stage of water last evening was 13½ feet and apparently stationary. The gorge at Kittanning was reported as having commenced to move at 2 P. M., and the ice was expected to pass here about 8 or 9 o'clock last night. Some of the Youghiogheny ice passed here on Sunday night; it is coming out in pieces, and no further apprehension is felt. There was considerable rain during the forenoon yesterday, but in the after part of the day it cleared off, and business was moderately active at the landing.

THE Cherokee is to leave Cincinnati for New Orleans on Wednesday.

THE Missouri River ice at Kansas City and elsewhere is breaking up.

AT St. Paul they call the Davidson-Hunkins contest "the naval engagement."

THE R. W. Skillinger was advertised to leave Cincinnati for this port yesterday.

IT is reported that Capt. R. C. Gray contemplates making a trip to Europe this Summer.

THE Minneola, en route from Memphis to Cincinnati, has 86 bales of cotton for Pittsburgh.

THE Fearless barges, as will be seen by card, are announced for St. Louis and intermediate points forthwith.

THE Carroll, Captain T. B. Burleigh, as will be seen by card, is announced to take her departure for St. Louis and Fort Benton on Thursday.

THE Exchange, Capt. Sam Shuman, with Messrs Harbison and Dales in the office, is announced to take her departure for Cincinnati to-morrow.

CAPT. JOHN TODD and engineer John M. Gormley left for Yankton yesterday, and Captain Wm. Coulson will depart to-day for the same point.

THE officers of the Carrie Brooks report having met the tow steamer Charles W. Mead at Brown's Island, floating down broadside, apparently in a disabled condition.

THE C. B. Church, Captain Patterson, is announced to take her departure for New Orleans to-day, and passengers and shippers should make a note of this, and be governed accordingly.

THE arrivals include the Carrie Brooks from Zanesville, Granite State from Portsmouth, and Salt Valley from Ironton. The Salt Valley and Mallie Ragon were the only departures, excepting towboats.

THE St. Louis Democrat of Saturday says:—The Iron Mountain arrived from New Orleans, and will leave for Pittsburgh in a few days with about 2,000 tons. The Nail City, due here early next week, will also get all she wants at the established rate for ore.

THE following is the manifest of the freight that the John Means takes from Wabash river and Evansville to New Orleans: 28,217 sks corn, 50 sks shipstuff, 19 casks bacon, 622 bbls pork and tierces of lard, 2,735 barrels flour and meat, 800 barrels potatoes, 60 tons bulk meat, 21 bbls whisky—in all, 2,550 tons.

A DISPATCH from St. Louis of the 14th inst. says: The R. A. Babbage sunk last night above Cairo and turned over, and will prove a total loss. She is insured for $10,000. The Babbage was commanded and partly owned by Captain Judd West, formerly of the City of Quincy, and was bound from the Ohio river to St. Louis, with a tow of coal.

PALMERSTON, of Nashville, furnishes the following to the Evansville Courier:—"Little old Jo-Reid, the great mouth of Smithland navigation, began his nautical career as clerk of the Lady Jackson in 1825. He was clerk of the Nashville in 1836. The first boat he commanded was the O. K. in 1839, then the Monroe in 1840, the Menedo in 1841, the Susquehanna in 1851, and the Ann Linnington in 1852. In 1853 he was master, owner, clerk, agent and general superintendent of the steamers Tennessee Belle and City of Cairo."

THE Cincinnati Gazette of yesterday says:—The Cherokee arrived from Pittsburgh before noon yesterday, having made the run from Wheeling down in thirty-seven hours, with 560 tons freight aboard. ......The D. T. Lane, with a miscellaneous tow, and Mt. Clare, with coal, arrived last evening. The Oakland, Louisville to Pittsburgh, passed up last evening, with empty barges......The Iron Mountain arrived from New Orleans, and will leave for Pittsburgh in a few days with about 2,000 tons. The Nail City, due here early next week, will also get all she wants at the established rate for ore. Wharfage receipts for the week ending last Thursday evening amounted to $100 25.

THE Missouri Transportation Company, with which Captains S. B. Coulson, W. S. Evans, Martin Coulson, R. C. Mason, Wm. Coulson and Dr. Burleigh are identified, have seven boats, all of which were constructed especially for the Upper Missouri trade, as follows: E. H. Durfee, Western, Far West, Josephine, Silver Lake No. 4 and Carroll. Several of these boats wintered at Yankton, and Captains Todd and Wm. Coulson, as noted in another place, have left for that point to get them ready for business. As noted in our report of yesterday, the Missouri Transportation Company have been awarded the Transportation Contract by the Government, and it could not have been placed in better hands.

YESTERDAY'S Cincinnati Commercial has the following of interest to steamboatmen and others: The R. W. Skillinger returns to Pittsburgh sure this evening, with a fair freight, including 250 bbls molasses, 400 boxes soap, 100 bbls and sacks of dried fruits, 7 casks broken glass, and a large amount of furniture......The Cherokee, from Pittsburgh, brought 118 pkgs glass, 12 plows, 118 axles, and 58 springs for Cincinnati, and has 500 tons of freight, including 6,302 kegs nails, 2,250 bxs bitters and 160 stoves for New Orleans on board. She departs for New Orleans on Wednesday.......Capt. W. B. Miller, late of the H. S. Turner, who is now visiting his family in Ashtabula county, will return here in a few days and take charge of another steamer. Mate Andrew Lytle, who died on the Cherokee, was taken ill while the steamer was at Wheeling, with congestion of the brain. Captain Wolf called two physicians, one at Bellaire and the other at Belmont, but he died at 2:40 a. m., Saturday. His remains arrived here on the Cherokee, yesterday morning, the steamer having her colors displayed at half-mast. The funeral will take place this morning, at 10 o'clock, from his late residence on Taylor street, in Newport, Kentucky. The deceased leaves a widow and two children to mourn his loss. He was one of our oldest Southern mates, having been in the New Orleans trade over twenty-five years. He was a first-class officer, and served with distinction in the Mississippi Squadron during the war.

HOME NEWS.

Fell into a Cellar.

Last evening about seven o'clock, as an old lady named Mrs. Geig was passing No. 139 Madison avenue, Allegheny, where a cellar was being dug, she suddenly fainted and fell down into the cellar. She escaped with a few bruises and soon returned to consciousness.

Spelling Matches.

Spelling school at the Bellefield Presbyterian Church, this Tuesday evening for the benefit of the poor; twenty-five cents for adults and ten cents for children under four ears.

Alleged Embezzlement.

Mr. Harry Stoner, of the Adams Express Company, yesterday morning made an information before Mayor McCarthy charging A. W. Morrison, the East Liberty agent of the Company, with embezzling a package containing $1,000. It is alleged that on or about the 6th of the present month, the defendant, as agent and an employee of the Express Company, received a package from Smith & Donnelly, stock dealers, to be forwarded to E. Dem, of Caledonia, Ohio, which he appropriated to his own use. The accused was arrested and is now confined in the Central Police Station. He claims that he will be fully able to establish his innocence.

Our Educational System.

Prof. C. C. Cochran, of the High School, who has given great attention to our educational system, has been pursuing his researches by asking questions of leading authorities on the subject. The following correspondence has passed between him and the editor of the Gardener's Monthly, and is printed in the last issue of the periodical named:

C. C. Cochran, Central High School, Pittsburgh, Pa., asks us:

"1. What, in your opinion, are the most radical defects in our present system of education?

"2. How can these defects be remedied?

"3. What effect would a wise system of Technical Education have upon our Commercial, Manufacturing, Mining and Agricultural interests?

4. "To what extent do other countries absorb our trade? Give instances, and as far as possible, statistics."

Our idea is that children are taught to remember too much, and to think too little,—hear more than they ought (for reading is only hearing at second hand) and do not see enough; and then they have every thing found for them, instead of being encouraged to find out things for themselves. In brief they are educated too much, and directed too little. Again, they are at school too long. One who has no knowledge of labor till he is a man, will want to live the rest of his days by his wits, rather than his hands, which is not a wholesome condition of society."

GATHERING FOR CONFERENCE.

Ministers in Town—The Hegira To-day.

The chief event of interest in Methodistic circles just now is the approaching Conference which is to be held at Alliance, Ohio, commencing on Wednesday morning. Bishop Bowman will preside over this Conference for the first time. The ministers connected with the surrounding towns, who are connected with this Conference commenced to gather in the city yesterday, which accounts for the unusual number of gentlemen of the cloth to be seen around town. For some time past the good people of Alliance have been setting their houses in order preparatory to the entertainment of their guests, and judging from what has been heard from that pretty rural town, the visitors will receive a cordial welcome from all classes irrespective of denominational bias. Rev. W. H. Kincaid the chairman of the committee of arrangements, with reference to transportation, announces that the required number of cars have been secured and that the train will leave the Union depot at two o'clock this afternoon. The indications are that in addition to the ministers there will be a goodly delegation of laymen from this city.

THE PERRYSVILLE ROAD TRAGEDY.

The Trial of Murray and Meyers for the Murder of Farmer Wahl to Begin To-day—Meyers Goes Back on His Confession.

The trial of Murray and Meyers, the alleged murderers of farmer Wahl a few months ago, will begin in the Quarter Sessions Court this morning, Judge Ewing and White on the bench. W. C. Moreland, Esq., will appear for Meyers, and W. D. Moore, Esq., for the other defendant, Murray. On behalf of the Commonwealth, Col. Bayne will assist District Attorney Montooth. It has not, as yet, been determined whether the defendants will be tried singly or together, though it is probable that they will be tried together.

Our readers will remember that shortly after the arrest of the men, Meyers made a full confession of the whole affair, which appeared in our columns. In his statement he said Murray did the shooting and he held the horses. He further said that he had no idea that the farmer would be murdered—that the only intention was to rob him. Lately Meyers has denied the truth of this confession, and says that his object in making it at the time was simply to release himself. He supposed, he said, that if he concocted this story he would be immediately released, and that Murray would be held to suffer the penalty for the crime. Murray remains as uncommunicative as ever concerning the crime.

THE ICE BANDS BROKEN.

The Kittanning and Kiskiminetas Gorges Swept Away—The Bridge at Leechburgh Destroyed—Reported Drowning of a Man—Pittsburgh Passed and No Damage Done.

The warm weather is having its effect in loosening the icy bands which have for so many weeks locked the smaller rivers of Western Pennsylvania, and the melting of the heavy snow in the mountains and hilly regions has increased the water supply wonderfully. About half past twelve o'clock on Sunday night the ice gorge in the Youghiogheny broke and passed out without doing very much damage. About the only injury inflicted was the destruction of a couple of coal tipples. The boat "Little Giant," which had got caught in the gorge at Elrods, was released by the break-up without being injured. The Monongahela and Youghiogheny rivers are both now free from ice.

Nearly all of yesterday the Allegheny river was watched with the hope that one of the two great gorges at Kittanning and Freeport would come gliding by, but it was after night before the icy influx commenced. About noon yesterday the gorge at Kittanning moved some two hundred feet down stream, but about four o'clock the whole immense mass of ice broke loose, the river at the lower end and middle of Kittanning being filled from shore to shore. For about an hour previous to the break-up the river rose very rapidly, causing the ice to spread and heave and surge in a fearful manner. Suddenly and without a moment's warning the gorge started the whole width of the river, overflowing the banks, but doing no damage. The heavy ice above the bridge came thundering down, shaking the structure from end to end, and causing a general stampede among the hundreds of spectators who lined its sides. After the ice had passed out the river fell rapidly, and now occupies its usual channel. So far as heard from no serious damage has been done along the Allegheny.

At half-past three o'clock yesterday afternoon the gorge in the Kiskiminetas river broke and passed into the Allegheny river before a junction could be formed with it by the ice from Kittanning. The county bridge at Leechburg was carried away, and a saw mill, located close to the river bank, was also destroyed. Not a vestige of the Leechburg bridge is left. Piers and every other obstruction were swept completely out of existence. Rogers & Burchfield, who own a large rolling mill near Leechburg, drew their supply of gas from the opposite side of the river, and the pipes were laid across the bridge. It is said that after the bridge had floated down the river a couple of miles the gorge stopped temporarily and four men ventured out on the bridge for the purpose of removing the gas pipe. Before they had accomplished their object the ice again started and the men being unable to escape, remained on the bridge until Allegheny Junction, several miles below, was reached when three of them were saved by throwing ropes from the bridge at that point and drawing them to a place of security. The fourth man is said to have been drowned. For the truth of this statement the writer does not vouch, but it was given him yesterday afternoon as among the accidents on the Kiskiminetas.

Shortly before eight o'clock last night the ice commenced making its appearance in this vicinity and the Allegheny river rose very rapidly. The Suspension and Hand street bridges were crowded with hundreds of people watching the immense cakes of ice crashing against the stone piers, and the light of the bonfires burning along the banks displayed the faces of hundreds more who could not secure favorable positions on the bridges. At eleven o'clock last night there was eighteen feet of water in the channel, but nothing could be seen save the surging ice, which filled the stream from bank to bank and swept past at a terrific rate. Our reporter could not learn of any damage having been done because nearly all the owners of river craft, in anticipation of just what happened, had taken the precaution to have their property removed to the Monongahela river. All the houses along the banks of the Kiskiminetas were swept away, but none of them were of much importance.

Oil City last night reported four feet, with the river rising, the ice running freely and good prospects of a general break-up. The Tidioute gorge was looked for every hour. At Parker's Landing yesterday the river rose all day at the rate of an inch an hour, with considerable ice running.

FINANCIAL.

Mr. SHIPTON, from the Finance Committee, presented an ordinance authorizing a temporary loan amounting to $125,000 for the payment of interest on bonds issued under the Penn avenue act.

Mr. METZGAR presented the following as a substitute:

WHEREAS, By the Controller's statement published Feb. 16, 1875, it appears that the sum of $93,484.56 is the balance in the Treasury belonging to appropriation No. 1, namely, Interest, and

WHEREAS, There is no deficiency in the City Treasury; therefore

Resolved, That this amount be applied to the payment of interest on street bonds now falling due, and that the City Controller is hereby authorized to borrow the sum of $30,000 for a period not exceeding one year at seven per cent. per annum payable in currency.

The Chair decided the substitute out of order on a point raised by Mr. Littell, that it would make the whole city liable for the interest, whereas under the ordinance the interest is assessed on the property along the streets improved.

The ordinance was then passed finally.

Mr. SHIPTON also presented an ordinance, returned from the Finance Committee with a negative recommendation, which provided for the consolidation of the market appropriations. The negative report of the committee was accepted and approved.

LAWYER'S FEES.

Also, a resolution providing for the payment of $5,000 to D. T. Watson and the heirs of the late H. B. Swoope, for services rendered during the difficulty with the Nation Trust Company.

Mr. RAFFERTY moved that the name of Mr. Swoope be stricken from the resolution. He did not think the city owed his estate anything, and was willing to leave his claim to the decision of a jury of twelve men, and if they decided to compensate Mr. Swoope for nothing done, he would then be agreeable.

Mr. LITTELL said that Mr. Watson would not accept his share unless Mr. Swoope's estate was also paid.

Mr. RAFFERTY's motion was lost, and the ayes and nays being demanded on the passage of the resolution it was adopted by a vote of 34 to 9.

Mr. SHIPTON presented the petition of John Cronin accompanied by a resolution exonerating him from payment of his taxes. The resolution was adopted.

Also, resolution authorizing the City Controller to draw a warrant for ten dollars in favor of P. McArdle in payment for a window broken by officers while making an arrest. Adopted.

Mr. LITTELL presented the resignation of Mr. T. S. Mitchell, from the Twenty-first ward. It was accepted, and a resolution for an election to fill the vacancy was passed. Mr. Mitchell resigned because he is about to remove from the ward.

Mr. H. DARLINGTON, resolution for warrant in favor of S. B. Cooper for $21 for postage. Passed.

Mr. DANNELLS, resolution for warrant in favor of the City Attorney for $923.43 for payment of the assessment against the city in the construction of the Forbes street sewer and charge to the contingent fund. Referred to Street Committee.

Mr. HARRISON, joint resolution for warrant in payment for repairs to one of the engines at the old water works. Adopted.

Mr. BRAUN, resolution for warrant in favor of Dr. McCoy for $150. Laid over.

Also, resolution for special committee of five to ascertain the plans and devices now in use or suggested for use in displaying street names either on houses or lamps. Adopted and Messrs. Braun and Froehlich appointed on behalf of S. C.

Also, preamble and resolution requesting the Board of Health to use its power to prevent the spread of small pox. Laid on the table.

Mr. MUSGRAVE moved that the action taken at the last meeting in defeating an ordinance for the location of Robinson street, from Brownsville avenue to Robinson's gate, be reconsidered. The motion was carried, and the rules being suspended, the ordinance was passed finally.

Mr. TAYLOR, report of the Board of Viewers on the opening of School alley. Referred to the Street Committee.

Mr. MCCLURG, an ordinance regulating the running of railroad trains within the city limits. Referred.

Mr. FETTERMAN, petition for the opening of Delilah street, South Side. Referred.

THE REVISORS.

Mr. BRUCE presented the following:

Resolved, That a committee of five, two from Select and three from Common Council, be appointed by the Chair, whose duty it shall be to inquire by what authority the Board of Revision made a reduction of ten per cent. in certain wards of the city as wards, and whether legal prosecution can be entered and maintained against the members of said Board who moved for and supported said action, for misdemeanor in office, or for conspiracy.

Mr. H. DARLINGTON moved that the resolution be laid on the table, which was favored by Mr. Shipton and others. The ayes and nays being called the motion was carried, the vote being as follows:

Ayes—Messrs. Ahl, Atkinson, Ballentine, Barckley, Braun, Dannels, B. Darlington, H. Darlington, Doyle, Froehlich, Herron, House, Hunter, Jeremy, Meyer, Moore, Musgrave, McCandless, McGimpsey, Rafferty, Shipton, Taylor, Vierheller—23.

AN ITALIAN SHOT.

A Fatal Accident or a Murder—A Mysterious Affair—The Proprietor of a Pea-nut Stand Killed—The Arrest of two Rivals—The Circumstances of the Case.

A case of shooting occurred last night on Liberty street, which was attended with such peculiar circumstances as to leave a doubt as to whether it was the result of a quarrel, or merely an accident resulting from the careless use of fire arms. The circumstances of the affair, so far as they can be ascertained were as follows:

A STREET EXCITEMENT.

Shortly after seven o'clock officer John Bailey, on duty on Liberty street near the Grain Elevator, heard the sound of a pistol shot, and upon looking around, discovered evidences of excitement among a party of men gathered in front of a pea-nut stand across the street. The stand is located at the railroad crossing. He stepped across and found several Italians gathered around a companion who was lying on the floor of the diminutive establishment. The officer pushing the others aside, found that the man was suffering from a bullet in his head, and was apparently mortally wounded. He at once summoned assistance and proceeded to take the man to a physician's office, inquiring in the meantime as to the facts of the shooting. The story told by the Italians was to the effect that they had been examining a revolver, owned by the wounded man, and that while it was in the hands of one Antonio Gautelle, he unthinkingly pulled back the trigger, when it slipped and one barrel was discharged. The bullet entered the head of the owner of the stand, Giovanni Descatzi, who fell at once, bleeding, to the floor.

DEATH OF THE VICTIM.

When first discovered by the officer Descatzi was conscious but could give no intelligible account of the affair. He walked with assistance a short distance, but grew so weak before he had gone a square that he had to be carried the rest of the way. He was taken to the office of Dr. McClelland, on Penn avenue, near Tenth street. The Doctor probed for the ball, and after a few minutes supposed he had it, but the probe only brought out a piece of the man's skull. The man by this time was so weak that he could not stand further pain, and so the physician after administering what relief he could, had him taken home. The wounded man resides in Splane's court, and has a wife and children. He was unconscious when he arrived at his dwelling place. The doctor pronounced the wound a mortal one, and death was momentarily expected. About ten o'clock Descatzi expired.

After Descatzi had been taken to the Doctors office, Gautelle, who did the shooting, called upon District Attorney Montooth and told him the story; and then afterward accompanied that official to the lock-up and gave himself up. The police also arrested Louis Multavado, who keeps a stand at the Custom House, and who is supposed to know something about the matter.

TWO ITALIANS ARRESTED.

The two Italians were furnished with separate cells, and when once behind the bars suddenly became uncommunicative and would say nothing. They affected not to understand, when conversed with in English, and would not reply to anybody,—evidently fearing that they would in some way compromise themselves by any conversation.

The story of the shooting being accidental is offset by another story which, however, may have nothing in it. This second story is to the effect that Descatzi was "cutting down prices" in the trade, and hence had incurred the hostility of other dealers, and that several of them called upon him to discuss matters, when a dispute arose, during which the shot was fired. There were many rumors afloat concerning the affair, but the exact truth will probably not be ascertained until the matter is officially investigated.

Gautelle, the man who did the shooting, or had the pistol in his hand at the time, is a young man, and is spoken of as of an inoffensive disposition. He slept as soundly in the lockup last night as though his mind had never been ruffled.

"THE FORTY NINERS."

They Hold a Reunion at Schildeckers on Diamond Street Last Night—The Exercises of the Evening.

The Twenty-sixth Anniversary of the Pittsburgh and California Enterprise Company, commonly known as the "Forty niners," was held in the parlor connected with Schildeckers confectionery rooms on Diamond street last night. Out of the fifty-two messes which composed the party westward bound in 1849, only about thirty representatives were present. On coming together the record was called over, that the whereabouts of absent comrades might be determined. In order to ascertain this correctly, as far as possible, each name was read aloud, and those who were informed as to the present location of the members would respond. After being thus engaged for an hour and a half, the matter was laid aside for a time, and supper was the next thing in order. A bountiful repast was in waiting, and those present partook largely, to the entire satisfaction of the inner man. After supper toasts and responses were indulged in as follows:

"Our Country," responded to by A. T. Gregg, Esq. "Pioneers of California of 1849," responded to by J. C. Moore, of Nevada. "Our absent comrades," responded to by Mr. Hughes. "Our Dead Comrades," drank in silence. "California," responded to by J. K. Dorrington. "The Press," responded to by J. M. Caldwell, Esq. "Our Trip to California in 1849," responded to by Capt. Lockwood. Following this, Mr. Bender sang "Auld Lang Syne" and "Home again," after which a social chat took place. The meeting did not adjourn until after one o'clock this morning, and was a very enjoyable affair.

The concert to be given by the choir of the Central Presbyterian Church, to-morrow night in the Y. M. C. A. room, has been indefinitely postponed on account of Union meetings now in progress in First Presbyterian church.

THE COMING TEA PARTY.

The Progress of the Arrangements—Some of the Features of the Proposed Entertainment.

The arrangements are being rapidly perfected for the Centennial Tea Party to be held at Library Hall the second week in April, and it promises to be one of the most brilliant entertainments ever given in our city. Library Hall is to be most handsomely decorated, the parquette is to be floored over and the thirteen tables, representing the original States, will be placed thereon. The tables will be presided over by ladies dressed in ye elegant costumes of ye ancient times. In addition to flowers and other handsome ornamentation each table will have an appropriate emblem of the State represented. Choice tea and coffee will be served in elegant china cups; the cups will be beautifully decorated and will be presented to visitors for the sum of one dollar, which includes a nice supper.

In addition to the regular supper, the tables will contain some very choice dishes, which will be served at the request of visitors, and for a small additional cost. The National table will be elegantly fitted up with beautiful and appropriate emblems and decorations, and also with delicious and dainty dishes, ice cream, etc., Charlotte russe, wine jellies, etc., etc., all of which will be sold at ye reasonable prices. There will be for sale at the National and other tables the four memorial medals coined at the United States Mint, which are in gold, silver and bronze. They are very handsome and will be highly prized as mementoes of our great national anniversary, and there will, we feel sure, be an immense number of them sold.

One leading feature will be the fine music discoursed by one of the best orchestras in the West. The decoration of the hall will be superintended by a number of ladies and gentlemen of excellent taste in such matters, who will make our cozy hall one of the most beautiful places that can be imagined. The toilettes of the ladies will be fac similes of those worn in the colonial times of 1776. Taken in all, the handsomely decorated hall, the fine toilettes of the ladies, and the choice music, it will certainly be a most beautiful and charming entertainment; and when we consider the object, viz.: the raising of as large a fund as possible in aid of the United States Centennial, we are sure our citizens will join us in wishing the ladies the greatest success, and we hope they will come forward and show their appreciation of the ladies' efforts by opening their purse strings and making our Centennial Tea Party a source of large revenue, as it so justly deserves to be.

Contributions Received.

The ladies managing this enterprise are highly gratified to find their efforts so liberally seconded by the munificent donations already received from so many of our citizens; and in thus acknowledging these, it is their hope that many others only waiting an opportunity to give expression to their co-operation may be incited to similar deeds; for doubtless it is the earnest wish of the patriotic citizens of Pittsburgh and Allegheny to contribute to the celebration of our Country's Independence in a manner commensurate with their characteristic liberality.

The contributions thus far are as follows: The managers of Library Hall have given the free use of their splendid building for such time as may be required for this celebration, also tendering the services of Mr. D. Lamb, stage carpenter.

Lumber required for putting the building in suitable condition for the Tea Party has been donated as follows: Mr. R. M. Leonard, 800 feet of flooring boards; Mullen, Steen & Co., 500; Euwer Bros., 500; Heath & Speer, 200—and more if required. W. F. Richardson, A. Kelley, J. B. Hill, Hill, Patterson & Son, each 200 ft. flooring boards. Samuel Douglass, 360 feet of scantling; B. F. Rynd, 320; Richey, Smith & Co., 320.

Nails, etc., have been donated as follows: Chess, Smyth & Co., 1 keg ten-penny nails; Graff, Bennett & Co., 1 keg clinch nails; Lewis, Oliver & Phillips, all the iron bolts that may be required.

W. G. Johnston & Co., all the admission cards that will be wanted.

F. Sellers & Co., 26 sugar-cured hams.

D. M. Jenkins, all the garden grown tea that will be required.

Mr. Ed. Negley, all the ice needed.

B. A. Elliott & Co., cut flowers to the amount of fifty dollars.

J. Adams, Esq., free transportation for a miniature ship purchased in the East.

Jos. Woodwell, Jr., 1 gross tea spoons and 3 dozen knives and forks.

S. S. Marvin & Co., Boston brown bread and other articles in his line of business.

Dilworth Bros., all the coffee required.

Reese Owens, beef tongues and a box of oranges.

Capt. Elliott, on Sixth street, a dozen rustic baskets, some rustic seats, with other handsome decorations.

All the sugar that will be required has been donated by a donor too modest to give his name.

Donations may be tendered to Mrs. Judge Jones or through any of the managers.

M. S. STEWART, Secretary.

The Emerald Green.

A Song in Honor of St. Patrick's Day; Composed by M. J. O'Dwyer, author of the celebrated song entitled "Washington's Birth Day."

Dedicated to Mayor McCarthy.

Air—"Wearing of the Green."

Oh, Mary dear, no longer here
In St. Louis can I stand;
The President, all round has sent
For sons of St. Patrick's land;
Urgently he states the Confed'rates
Will make a northern raid,
And he'll have to run from Washington
If men in green don't give aid.

Patrick hold aroon, I'm near to swoon,
But if you're not said by me,
Admir'l you may be of th' iron navy
Upon the Mis'sippi;
Or both cold and damp by a down South swamp
Your bones may bleaching lie;
Then, ah! pity me, for here lonely,
Disconsolate I'll die.

*Cush-la ma chree is my Mary,
But if the enemy I beat,
And do not fall by the sword or ball
Of a Confederate,
I may obtain a post to Spain,
In Uncle Sam's embassy,
Or to govern States of Confederates,
Or a new Territory.

But if Chief I be o'er an army
Of forty thousand men,
I will march back to the Potomac,
I hope, victorious; and then—
I can't express how grand you'll dress
On a field day by my side,
And match can't be seen for our em'rald green,
When along the ranks we'll ride.

'Cept St. Patrick's day of green display
Discipline and regalia,
In Dublin, Cork, Pittsburgh, New York,
North, South, West and Australia:
When cousins in France will friendship advance,
Rememb'ring the first Brigade,
That fought 'neath the green by the river Seine,
And beat the Turks at Belgrade.

* The words "cush-la ma chree" mean "pulse strings of my heart."

BLEEDING FROM LUNGS, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, CONSUMPTION.—A WONDERFUL CURE.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 13th, 1874.

R. V. PIERCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir—I had suffered from catarrh in an aggravated form for about twelve years, and for several years from bronchial trouble. Tried many doctors and things with no lasting benefit. In May, '72, becoming nearly worn out with excessive editorial labors on a paper in New York City, I was attacked with Bronchitis in a severe form, suffering almost a total loss of voice. I returned home here, but had been home only two weeks, when I was completely prostrated with hemorrhage from the lungs, having four severe bleeding spells within two weeks, and first three inside of nine days. In the September following I improved sufficiently to be able to be about, though in a very feeble state. My bronchial trouble remained, and the catarrh was tenfold worse than before. Every effort for relief seemed fruitless. I seemed to be losing ground daily. I continued in this feeble state, raising blood almost daily, until about the first of March, '73, when I became so bad as to be entirely confined to the house. A friend suggested your remedies, but I was extremely skeptical that they would do me good, as I had lost all heart in remedies, and began to look upon medicine and doctors with disgust. However, I obtained one of your circulars, and read it carefully, from which I came to the conclusion that you understood your business, at least. I finally obtained a quantity of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, your Golden Medical Discovery and Pellets, and commenced their vigorous use according to directions. To my surprise, I soon began to improve. The Discovery and Pellets in a short time, brought out a severe eruption, which continued for several weeks. I felt much better, my appetite improved, and I gained in strength and flesh. In three months every vestige of the Catarrh was gone, the Bronchitis had nearly disappeared, had no cough whatever and I had entirely ceased to raise blood; and, contrary to the expectation of some of my friends, the cure has remained permanent. I have had no more Hemorrhages from the Lungs, and am entirely free from Catarrh, from which I had suffered so much and so long. The debt of gratitude I owe for the blessing I have received at your hands, knows no bounds. I am thoroughly satisfied, from my experience, that your medicines will master the worst forms of that odious disease Catarrh, as well as Throat and Lung Diseases. I have recommended them to very many, and shall ever speak in their praise. Gratefully yours,

WM. H. SPENCER.

THE PREVAILING "SPELL."

The Citizens of Sharpsburg and Etna Attacked and Recovered.

The citizens of Sharpsburg and Etna have passed through an attack of the prevailing disease. After a week of premonitory symptoms, they took the "spell" in its severest form Friday of last week. This report has been delayed with the expectation of having to announce fatal results in several cases, but we are glad to say that the sufferers have all recovered. Friday evening the audience in the Presbyterian church were relieved, after waiting expectantly for nearly half an hour, by the appearance of the "classes," headed by their respective captains, Mr. Gross of Etna, and Mr. Paulson of Sharpsburg. Rev. A. H. Calvert was appointed to take the spelling book, and Rev. M. Patterson, Col. Zeigler and Mr. Myric were chosen judges. After spelling a round or two just to see how it would go the tussle commenced. The first victim to the "inconsistencies of Noah" was a lady overcome by a "spell" of "diziness." She is convinced now that it takes another "z." The next one, a gentleman, strange to say, was affected in a similar way. He fell out of line under a "sophorific" influence. Then the same fatal influence seemed to be at work and a gentleman was given the word torporific. We tried to find how it was spelled, but failed. Victim No. 4 turned pale at "agast." He seemed to be of the same mind as John McKee, with the exception that whereas in Jno. McKee's case it was the "cilent vouls" that bothered him; in this case it was the silent "h" that knocked him out of time. He has since recovered sufficiently to find that Dr. Noah has not pronounced the case a fatal one, as the reader will see by consulting the book. The fight now became lively. A legal gentleman fell next, his trouble was the word agreeable, he spelled it "agreable," and sat down. He also has since found some consolation in that fountain of the aforesaid "Noah," and now rises to say that you will find the word "agre" there, and why not then "agreable?" A young lady with "sparkling een" got amethyst. She started out with the conviction that there was a "y" in the word and guessed it ought to come in after "m." "Apal" for appal shocked the next man. The letter "p" seemed to be getting scarce, and apparatus was spelled with only one of that necessary article. A young lady who was thinking perhaps of catching some young man with that most effective of all tackle, a glance, spelled her word "Arch-Angle." Avoirdupois proved too heavy for the strength of another fair one. The word baluster was given a lady, who, we believe, must have spelled it about right, for referring again to "Noah" we find three chances on the word: ballister, balister and baluster. The next sufferer was a bad case; he got, bronchitis, and it "got him." At this point one of the Captains fell, covered with glory, he was "cannonized." The word cantaloupe was the means of flooring the only legal gentleman left; we believe he "claims a foul" too. The word chagrin was the most effective destroyer as yet employed; the gentleman spelling it first spelled it "shagreen," and was decided down, no one seeming to think it worth while to consult "Webster;" the gentleman being young, modest and a stranger, did not press his cause and sat down. He now refers to the source mentioned before as his authority for "shagreen." The most distressing case of the evening was that of a quiet young lady who became so much under the influence of "cidar" as to be unfit for further duty; it might be explained by the fact that she belonged to the temperance society and was not used to it. The sides were now one against six, and for quite a while the one battled bravely with the great odds against him, until impostor ended the contest; he tried it with a "ter." The following parties came out of the fight unhurt: Captain Paulson, 'Squire Keil, W. H. Jack, H. J. Shurtliff, and a young lady whose name we are sorry to say we could not obtain. The proceeds of the affair go to the poor.

At the Fourth U. P. Church, corner of Penn avenue and Seventeenth street, there will be given a series of Sociables and Spellings on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings of this week. Tuesday: Springfield vs. O'Hara Schools. Wednesday: Pittsburgh Teachers vs. Allegheny. Thursday: Volunteer "nines."

There will be another spell in the Sixth U. P. church, Allegheny, this evening.

Charles' Patent Air-Tight Burial Cases.

We have heretofore had occasion to speak of the superiority of Charles' Patent Air-Tight Burial Cases, over anything in that line now before the public. The peculiarity of these cases is that they are perfectly air-tight and that a body placed within one of them can be preserved for any reasonable length of time, fresh and free from decay without the expense of embalming. The other day we had an opportunity of demonstrating this fact by practical observation. The body of an old man, who had died at the Hospital, had been put into one of Charles' Patent Burial Cases, to await orders from the friends at a distance. It remained in the case for eighteen days, and was then brought to the city for shipment to its last resting place. During the few hours it remained at the undertakers here it was exposed to view, and the countenance seen through the glass of the case exhibited an appearance as fresh and clear as though it had just been prepared that day for burial. There was not the slightest discoloration visible, and in looking at it, the observer could hardly believe that a body could be so preserved in an ordinary burial case for such a length of time without any means being taken to preserve it. The fact, however, was indisputable, and was the most convincing proof of the superiority of this valuable and really important patent in the manufacture of burial cases.

These cases were patented by an undertaker who had twenty-five years experience in the business and so should have an understanding of the wants of trade. They are certainly ahead of anything in that line now known, and undertakers, whose business is in this direction, would do well to get further particulars by addressing Mr. Isaac Charles, No. 25 Church avenue, Allegheny City, Pa. We can guarantee the gentleman to be reliable in every respect and he has a patent which it would be for the interest of every undertaker to adopt. An application to him will convince any practical man of the great advantages offered in this patent.

Reineman's New Restaurant.

Extensive patronage has compelled Mr. George Reineman to seek larger premises at 38 Diamond street, in the rear of the Germania Savings Bank. The building was erected by Mr. Reineman, and is admirably arranged for a restaurant, being commodious, well lighted and thoroughly ventilated. The house will be opened March 22d, after which those who want good eating will know where to find it. TTHS

Purity of Body—Purity of Mind.

A sound mind in a sound body is a necessary consequence, but the body can only be kept pure by frequent ablutions, the most effective method of which is the Turkish or Russian bath, as applied by Dr. Greenawalt, No. 11 Wylie avenue.

The Multiplication of Diseases.

Diseases multiply. One begets another. A trifling indisposition may, therefore, originate a complication of dangerous maladies. Indigestion begets far more formidable diseases; a multitude of ailments are traceable to constipation; fever and ague unhinges the entire nervous system, and is therefore the source of the protean ailments which affect that portion of the human organism. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, however, whether resorted to at the inception of those disorders of the stomach, bowels or liver, which give birth to the majority of diseases and disabilities, or taken when they have ripened into formidable maturity, are alike powerful to cure. The process of recovery is, of course, longer when the malady has gained headway, but it is none the less certain. Dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, kidney complaints and intermittent fever, invariably yield to the operation of the great alterative and invigorant.
